WASHINGTON (AP)—Lt. Col. John H. Glenn, first American to orbit the earth, told congressional investigators today that "not every flight can come back as successfully as the three we have had so far."

The astronaut made the remark as part of his reply to a question whether it might be better to have a trained scientist along on some future flights.

NEW LOOK IN CHESS

Moscow's sports palace Monday night was jammed with 15,000 spectators who breathlessly watched every move made by two of Russia's masters of the game. The reason was that cold ivory pieces were replaced by sprightly, warm-blooded ballerinas dressed as pawns, knights, bishops, castles, kings and queens who pirouetted to their squares as the masters directed. Half the dancers were dressed in white and half in black, but all wore scarlet tights. Chess masters were world champion Mikhail Botvinnik and former champion Valis Smyslov—but who cared? (See story page 8.)

54 Miners Die In Explosion

WALL STREET CHIEF FACES TAX CHARGES

NEW YORK (AP)—J. Truman Bidwell, chairman of the board of governors of the New York Stock Exchange, was indicted today on charges of evading federal income taxes. He immediately announced his resignation.

A federal grand jury returned a two-count indictment against Bidwell, who has been a governor of the exchange since 1958 and board chairman since last May 15.

BELGRADE (AP)—At least 54 miners were killed today in a gas explosion in a coal mine in central Yugoslavia, Radio Belgrade reported.

The official news agency Tanjug said it was feared about 180 miners were trapped underground. It earlier had put the death toll at 28.

The explosion struck in the Tito Mine at Banovic, in the eastern region of Bosnia-Herzegovina province.

The radio said rescue workers have been unable to reach the level where the explosion took place, and the final death toll could not be established.

Rescue workers managed to save about 80 miners. Officials fear the number of dead may increase, Tanjug said.

POLICE DOGS ROUSE E. BERLINERS

BERLIN (Reuters)—The forcible evacuations of East Germans living near the West Berlin border continued today. At dawn East German police with watchdogs woke the inhabitants of several houses near the British sector district of Staaken and took them away in trucks.

The evacuees were barely allowed time to collect a few personal belongings, West Berlin police said. Their furniture was taken away later.

SAIGON NORMAL AGAIN

Palace Bombers 'Acted on Own'

SAIGON (AP)—A bombing attack on president Ngo Dinh Diem's palace today was carried out by two South Vietnamese Air Force officers acting on their own, the government said tonight.

The planes swept in low just after dawn and attacked the palace with fire bombs, rockets and machine guns. One pilot was captured.

The attack left a wing of the palace a smoldering ruin, but the 61-year-old anti-Communist president escaped harm.

Six hours after the attack this capital resumed its normal outward appearance except for soldiers guarding street corners. There was no sign of a revolt to add to the difficulties of South Viet Nam, already fighting a war with Communist guerrillas.

Naval anti-aircraft guns just outside Saigon shot down one of the two U.S.-made fighter-bombers that blasted the palace. Its pilot, Lieut. Pham Quoc was captured alive, Civic Action Minister Ngo Trong Hieu announced.

OTHER CRASH LANDS

The pilot of the second plane was identified by the minister as Sub-Lt. Nguyen Van Cu.

His plane, riddled with anti-aircraft fire, was reported to have crashed landed at Phnom Penh airport in neighboring Cambodia, authorities arrested the pilot.

The civic action minister told a press conference the "two rebel officers," stationed at the big military airfield at Bien Hoa, 20 miles northeast of Saigon, staged an "isolated action. He said nothing was known yet as to their motives.

Shortly after the attack, Diem went on the air and broadcast that "thanks to divine protection I myself and my close collaborators were not in danger."

Two of Diem's brothers, Roman Catholic Archbishop Ngo Dinh Thuc and Ngo Dinh Nhu, and Nhu's wife, who acts as the bachelor president's first lady, were in the palace at the time. She was reported to have suffered slight injury.

ALGERIA REBEL CHIEFS ACCEPT PEACE TERMS

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP)—The Algerian rebel parliament has accepted a peace agreement with France to end the 7½-year Algerian war, well-informed sources said today.

The sources said the National Council for Algerian Revolution, the rebel parliament, met here today to draft an announcement of its acceptance of the accord worked out by French and rebel representatives in secret negotiations in Switzerland.

But the source said the announcement would not be made public until after the Algerian leaders leave Tripoli.

REPRISALS FEARED

Troops Guard Moslem Area

(CP From AP-Reuters)

ALGIERS — Security forces were strengthened around Moslem quarters of Algiers today amid growing fears that Moslems may be provoked into a death-for-death blood-bath with European extremists.

Moslems have been gunned down indiscriminately through out this city during the current wave of terror. Twenty-two persons were killed Monday and even more were wounded.

By mid-day today three Moslems had been killed in eight attacks in Algiers. The attacks were coupled with a new outbreak of kidnappings in Algiers and Oran that netted European gunmen arms and money.

The murders are believed to be a right-wing terrorist tactic aimed at sparking a major clash between Europeans and Moslems in an attempt to sabotage Algerian peace plans.

In Paris, official sources said today Premier Michel Debre has ordered French military commanders in Algeria to dispatch reserve forces to trouble spots in an effort to cut back the terrorist killings.

Debre was reported to have ordered commanders to deploy forces that had been held in readiness for an attempt by the Secret Army Organization to overthrow the government.

Authorities sent a battalion of infantry and three squadrons of mobile guardsmen—about 1,000 men—into the heart of Algiers Monday. With guns at the ready, soldiers lined the Rue Michelet, a street of shops and cafes where Europeans strolled despite shots and speeding ambulances.

MADRID (AP)—Reports reaching official circles here from the Canary Islands today said ex-Colonel Antoine Argoud, under French sentence of death for anti-Gaule activities in Algiers, had escaped from Palma Island where he was exiled last October by the Franco government.

The Spanish ministry of foreign affairs said it had no confirmation of the reports.

Nehru Winning Easily

NEW DELHI (Reuters)

Prime Minister Nehru's Congress party swept toward another five years of power today with a long lead in India's third general election.

On the national level, results gave the party 52 out of the 70 seats declared for the 494-seat Lok Sabha (lower house).

Congress candidates were also leading in many election districts, including the key one of North Bombay where Defence Minister V. K. Krishna Menon held a big 58,000 vote margin over his chief opponent, J. B. Kripalani.

On the state level, Nehru's party led with more than 1,000 seats out of the 1,500 declared for the 2,930 assembly seats at stake in 13 legislatures.

While the right-wing Swabatra party—regarded by many Indians as a potential threat to the Congress party—made gains in three states, its national chairman, N. G. Ranga, lost his house seat to a Communist in Andhra Pradesh.

COMMUNISTS HOLDING

In both Andhra Pradesh and West Bengal, the Communists appeared to be holding their own despite a party split over Communist Chinese incursions on the Indian border.

Lottery Law Up to All 10 Provinces

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton said today in the Commons all provinces would have to be consulted on any amendment to the Criminal Code to make provincial lotteries possible.

He also said he was surprised that Premier Lesage of Quebec had disclosed Monday that Quebec was consulting with the federal government on the necessary amendments contingent to a provincial lottery.

He said in reply to Florent Dubois (PC—Richmond-Wolfe) that Mr. Lesage's letters to him on the subject were marked personal.

The minister said his department is considering the problems raised by the Quebec proposal.

'Joint Control' Still an Issue

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker today declined a direct reply to Paul Hellyer, Liberal defence critic, on whether there is a secret Canada-United States agreement for provision of American nuclear warheads to this country on outbreak of nuclear war.

Opposition Leader Pearson asked for comment on Washington reports quoting U.S. military sources as saying that nuclear warheads supplied to Canada after outbreak of war would be of no use.

The prime minister said he didn't intend to make observations in such an important matter on the statements of some anonymous individuals.

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker said flatly in the Commons Monday that if Canada is attacked by nuclear weapons, Canadian forces should not be denied the right to use nuclear weapons.

He said the government "hopes" to have nuclear weapons available for use by Canadian troops participating in a nuclear war breaks out.

But just how the Canadian government would realize that "hope" was not clear following the Prime Minister's replies to a series of questions asked by Opposition Leader L. B. Pearson in the House.

Mr. Diefenbaker's statements appear to indicate that the Canadian government has entered into some form of agreement with the United States providing for a very fast delivery of nuclear warheads for use on weapons in this country in the event of the outbreak of hostilities, or clear evidence that hostilities will break out within a matter of hours.

Top defence officials within the government firmly refused to comment Tuesday on the statements made by the prime minister. They said that the only person who could interpret what Mr. Diefenbaker meant by his statements was the prime minister himself.

Certainly it appeared from what the prime minister said that Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles in Canada aid jet interceptors in this country will not be equipped with nuclear warheads while there is still a chance for peace.

But in the event of a sure sign that nuclear war is on its way to North America, including an attack on Canada, then Canadian forces presumably will be able to obtain fast

GOV'T STAND VACILLATING —CHEVRIER

VANCOUVER (CP)—Former Liberal Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier says the Diefenbaker government's whole attitude toward nuclear arms is one of "vacillation compounded by indecision."

He made the charge Monday night in an address to a Vancouver-Quadra Liberal nominating meeting which chose businessman Grant Deachman, 48, to contest the next federal election. The seat has been held for 27 years for the Progressive Conservative Party by External Affairs Minister Howard Green.

Mr. Chevrier is in Victoria today. He addressed the Rivants Club at noon and was scheduled to be the key speaker at an Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal nomination convention at the Tillicum School at 8 this evening when David Groos was expected to be chosen candidate for the coming federal election.

delivery of nuclear warheads for the Bomarc bases. The Canadian interceptors, it is assumed, would be directed immediately to U.S. bases to be fitted with nuclear weapons.

Pearson to Ask Specific Facts

However while leaving the impression that some form of fast delivery system might be arranged with the U.S. defence forces the prime minister did not actually come out and say there was such an arrangement in the works. It is expected Liberal Leader Pearson will press again to ascertain if some such secret agreement has been made.

Meantime the reactions to Mr. Diefenbaker's statements from Washington do not seem to bear out the possibility of an arrangement for fast delivery being worked out with the U.S.—Both American military and diplomatic sources were reported from Washington to be bitterly disappointed with the latest statements by the prime minister on Canada's nuclear warheads position.

Mr. Diefenbaker explained to the Commons Monday that his government's policy was that nuclear warheads will not be made available for Canada, unless Canada can secure joint control of the warheads with the U.S.

Under persistent questioning by Mr. Pearson the Prime Minister conceded that as the law of the U.S. now stands "joint control is impossible."

Winter Continues To Desolate U.K.

LONDON (AP)—Britons slithered through ice and snow today and weathermen saw no immediate break in the cold snap.

Even the usually mild region of Cornwall in the southwest and the Channel Islands shared the freeze-up.

In the north, conditions in Yorkshire were so bad that even police cars kept off the roads. Snowplows struggled in vain to open a way through six-foot drifts on the main England-Scotland highway in Westmoreland.

Lakeland farmers were trying to rescue hundreds of sheep buried in drifts.

Centennial Flashback...

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

FEBRUARY 27

John Giles, a Cariboo miner better known as "Jack of Clubs," is believed to have been killed by a Haida Indian while visiting his mistress, an Indian girl named Jenny, in a hut on the reservation. About 100 of Jack's friends, plus a posse of police, searched the reservation, and a young Indian was taken into custody. He said the miner had indeed been killed, but that another Indian did it.

The sad news reached Victoria via the sloop Rambler, from Port Townsend, that the schooner Tolo capsized near San Juan Island last Monday. And Capt. Maloney, four passengers and a seaman drowned.

Yesterday's snowfall, which preceded heavy rain, was measured at 1½ inches. A renewed cold spell today followed the rain.

... NUCLEAR WEAPONS

Members applauded Mr. Diefenbaker's declaration that Canadian troops should not be denied the right to use nuclear weapons. But when Mr. Pearson pressed the prime minister to say how the government would ensure that such weapons were in Canadian hands in the event of nuclear war there was an expectant hush in the House.

As members waited anxiously for the reply Mr. Speaker Roland Michener rose to his feet. Mr. Diefenbaker had not yet risen to answer and appeared to be mulling over Mr. Pearson's key question.

Mr. Speaker Michener intervened to declare that there had been a substantial exchange on the matter during the orders of the day question period. Mr. Pearson pointed out that it was "an important matter." Mr. Speaker Michener refused to allow the question to be put and that ended the exchange.

Mr. Speaker's intervention saved the prime minister from answering the question. Some MP's looked puzzled, members appeared relieved.

The nuclear questions were raised by Mr. Pearson because of newspaper reports of the prime minister's comments on the nuclear issue at Edmonton in a press conference last Saturday.

He made two main points then: (1) That his government does not intend to acquire nuclear warheads for Canadian weapons as long as the problem of disarmament is "being seriously considered."

(2) Should war come Canada will have weapons with nuclear capability. "Are we to arm Canadians with bows and arrows?" he asked.

It is assumed here that Russia could not mount a sudden surprise attack without North American intelligence being alerted in advance. On this basis there would be sufficient time for delivery of nuclear weapons to Canadian bases, by the Americans.

There would be no problem for Canadian forces now in Europe. There are storage dumps of nuclear warheads nearby and NATO would supply these Canadian forces with nuclear warheads in about one hour's time.

But in Canada the situation is different. In Edmonton the prime minister referred to delivery from the U.S. not from NATO supplies in Europe. He may have been hinting at a so far undisclosed arrangement with the United States' government to provide Canadian forces in Canada with nuclear warheads. No one here will say. All queries are referred to the prime minister.

Mr. Diefenbaker insisted in the House Monday that what he said at Edmonton was simply a repetition of what had been said on previous occasions.

One difficulty about a fast delivery system from the U.S. for Bomarcas to the Canadian bases at Nanaimo Bay and La Macaza in Quebec is that it takes precious time to properly arm a Bomarc missile with a nuclear warhead.

Mr. Diefenbaker said in the House Monday "We take the stand that in the interests of disarmament everything must be done to assure success if it can be attained and that the nuclear family should not be increased so long as there is any possibility of disarmament among the nations of the world."

Saanich Bogs Down On High-Rise Policy

Saanich council on Monday made little headway in arriving at a definite policy for high-rise apartments in the municipality.

A public hearing was called to deal with the subject, but council decided instead to refer to the lands and planning committee regulations designed to govern the construction of multi-story buildings.

This means zoning applications for the construction of apartments will have to wait until council deals with the regulations.

"It would be putting the cart before the horse if we approved the construction of apartments before the regulations," said Reeve Stanley Murphy.

The reeve said there should be controls and regulations governing the construction of apartments, as there are in other municipalities in B.C.

However, council did take action on two zoning bylaws. It rejected rezoning to permit construction of a high-rise apartment at 1984 Waterloo Road. Residents in the area were opposed to the project.

Council also rejected a by-law to restrict single-family dwellings in Cadboro Bay to two storeys with a maximum height of 20 feet.

'ALL-OUT' FIGHT PLEDGED

NDP Nominates City Machinist

Harry Fanthorpe, 47, of 2934 Cedar Hill Road, will carry the New Democratic Party's flag in Victoria at the next federal election, expected this year.

He is proprietor of the Harbour Machine Shop, 31 Erie.

He was nominated at a party convention in the Woodsworth Hall Monday night after Fred J. Bevis, the only other nominee, stood down because he could not enter an election as an employee of the federal government.

Said Mr. Bevis: "I allowed my name to stand for nomination, in all good faith, in the hope that I would be able to make some contribution to the success of our cause."

'SECOND-CLASS'

"Only this afternoon I learned that an employee of the federal government is a second-class citizen. Under the Federal Government Act, it is quite clearly stated that no employee of the federal government can stand as candidate in a federal election."

David Reimer, president of the Victoria New Democratic Party Association, accepted Mr. Bevis' withdrawal with the remark:

"Something should be done about this."

Mr. Bevis called on the meeting to support Mr. Fanthorpe "as a good solid supporter of Tommy Douglas," but ran into opposition from Bill Scott, the self-styled Lighthouse Philosopher.

"Supposing you ignored this ruling and ran for election?" he asked, "what could happen?"

Mr. Bevis replied that any federal employee who did so would be subject to "instant dismissal."

He said he was employed in HMC Dockyard under the department of national defence.

Mr. Fanthorpe accepted the nomination by saying he would "go all out" to win a seat in Ottawa.

But first he suggested the meeting be reconvened so that other candidates could be nominated.

Mrs. Marney Stevenson and Neil Hindle moved acceptance of Mr. Fanthorpe as candidate and he was accepted with only one dissenter—Mr. Scott.

CANBERRA (Reuters)—Australia has no objection to the resumption of nuclear atmospheric tests on Christmas Island in the Pacific. Prime Minister Robert Menzies told the House of Representatives today.

Park Lakes Planned By Oak Bay

Oak Bay council will be asked to approve a $74,152 plan to develop Uplands Park.

Members of the municipal works committee reviewed the plan Monday night.

The development is planned as a winter works project with a $13,500 senior government grant. This would mean a $61,102 cost to the municipality.

The plan includes the digging of three artificial lakes, each measuring 100 by 80 feet, which would have a re-circulating system and pump to keep the water aerated.

Also included would be the re-soiling and seeding of six acres of playing area.

Construction would start first on the laying of a network of culverts at a cost of about $25,000.

Decision Set On Rhodesia

LONDON (Reuters)—The British cabinet in a 2½-hour meeting today reached a final decision on the powder keg question of a constitution for Northern Rhodesia, usually reliable sources said.

The decision will be communicated to Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of the white-dominated Rhodesian Federation which includes the protectorate of Northern Rhodesia. It will be announced in the House of Commons Wednesday, the sources said.

It was widely assumed in parliamentary quarters that the constitutional proposals will allow for the possibility of a Negro majority in the Northern Rhodesian legislature.

Driver's Gross Contempt Brings 30 Days in Prison

COURTENAY—A driver who has had 11 traffic convictions and two accidents was sentenced to 30 days in prison in police court here on Monday.

Victor E. Crisp pleaded guilty to two charges of driving while his licence was suspended. He was sentenced to 30 days on each count, to be served concurrently.

Magistrate John Ryland said he regarded Crisp's behavior as gross contempt.

James Craig Jr. pleaded guilty to second offence of impaired driving and was sentenced to the minimum term of 14 days in jail. His licence was suspended for three months.

Magistrate Ryland pointed out a third offence bears a mandatory term of three months imprisonment.

COURTENAY—Closing hours and holidays for local merchants have been set for the entire year, including Christmas.

At a meeting of the retail committee of the Chamber of Commerce Monday, 34 retailers set business hours for the coming year and defeated a motion to change Wednesday closing to Mondays.

Stores will remain open Easter Monday, Jan. 2, and will observe Friday routine on Dec. 21 and the 22.

Safeway manager James Cairn asked that super markets be allowed to set their own operating hours and objected to the adopted schedule.

"Super markets are in a class of their own," he said. "I object to having hardware and dry-goods operators setting food store hours."

Safeway plans to have six-day shopping again this summer.

COURTENAY—Homeless Japanese and Hong Kong children should be permitted to enter Canada for placement in foster homes, Rev. R. W. Fenn told a Kiwanis Club meeting here.

He criticized Canadian immigration policies which prevent the entry into Canada of foreign children.

"A change of immigration laws is a prerequisite to true brotherhood," he said.

He said the present policy welcomes only skilled tradesmen, who should stay home and develop their own countries.

But homeless foreign children are barred from the country, he said.

Argue Heads for Grinding Crash On Liberals' Bandwagon—Berger

Hazen Argue left the CCF, New Democratic Party with "indecent haste" to jump aboard the Liberal Party bandwagon, B.C. provincial leader of the CCF-NDP Tom Berger said here Monday night.

"It was a most pitiful performance," Mr. Berger told a federal nominating convention in Woodsworth Hall, 731 Courtney Street.

Capt. McKay Funeral Set Wednesday

Funeral services will be held Wednesday for veteran policeman and boatman Capt. John McKay, 646 Niagara, who died Sunday after a long illness. He was 78.

Born in Edinburgh, he served in that city's police force before coming to Canada and settling in Nanaimo. In 1952 he moved south to Victoria.

WITH RCN

He served in the Royal Canadian Navy, aboard fisheries patrol vessels and aboard the B.C. ferry at Burns Lake for three years.

He was a member of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Association and Tweedsmuir Lodge, No. 152, AM & AM, BCR.

The services will be conducted at 3:30 p.m. in Hayward's Chapel by Rev. Canon S. J. Wickens and will be followed by cremation.

"I am very much afraid Mr. Argue will find the Liberal bandwagon is going in the wrong direction, and he will crack up with it."

'PATHTIC'

"He has failed miserably to justify his charges that the NDP is under the control of a clique of labor leaders. His whole performance is pathetic."

Mr. Berger said Mr. Argue had spoken of Liberal leader Lester Pearson as a "new Pearson."

"What has this new Pearson said about the great issues of peace and war?" he asked. "Mr. Pearson has never taken a stand on Red China, either at the United Nations assembly or since."

SEEK ALTERNATIVE

Mr. Berger said the reception given to NDP leader Tommy Douglas in British Columbia was a clear indication that the people are seeking an alternative to the kind of "unsatisfactory government" they have had for so many years.

"They are tired of a government that is based, not on the needs of the people, but on the demands of big business."

Mr. Berger said big business had failed to cope with the major problem of unemployment, whereas the trade union movement was actively concerned with it.

SAME ADMS

"For that reason," he declared, "the trade unions cannot be separated from the New Democratic Party. Their aims are the same."

Mr. Berger argued that "wherever democratic social planning has been tried in this world it has worked," and he said NDP leader Tommy Douglas had given "the only clear lead" to a truly democratic state in Canada.

"Even Victoria can be convinced of this."

Richter Snags Pants on Barbed Legislation

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

The legislature played "Don't Fence Me In" for 38 minutes Monday and its members created an uproar jumping over the tune.

It had Premier Bennett and Opposition leader Robert Strachan swapping insults; and it resulted in two recorded votes.

Cause of the explosion—not all in good humor—was an innocent little amendment to the Trespass Act, finally given second reading.

Purpose, according to Agriculture Minister Frank Richter, was to allow the cabinet to set regulations prescribing legal fencing and to throw out the obsolete list of legal fences in the present act.

... he strayed

But Cedric Cox (NDP-CCF—Burnaby) exposed the teeth in the barbed wire when he complained that fence companies were monopolies.

Mr. Strachan pointed out one section deleting definitions of "No. 9 gauge" and "No. 12 gauge" fencing.

"All wire manufacturers or fence manufacturers by some strange coincidence at the same time decided to stop manufacturing two particular gauges," he observed.

He quoted from a Restrictive Trade Practices Commission Report of 1954 which investigated a wire combine.

"This combine is still in operation," he charged.

It had "gouged" farmers into accepting certain types of fencing.

"It is rather far-fetched," observed Speaker Hugh Shantz.

"It is governmental responsibility to determine why they are not available," said Mr. Strachan.

"No it's not," snorted Attorney-General Robert Bonner with a guffaw.

"I'm trying to defend the farmers of his province from the attack of monopolistic organizations," complained Mr. Strachan. Farmers had "been taken advantage of."

Mr. Shantz said he was "transgressing" the principle of the bill.

Gordon Dowding (NDP-CCF—Burnaby) carried it further. In Eastern Europe they were putting up double barbed wire fences," he said.

"This may be the purpose of this legislation."

The frustrated Mr. Shantz

HUGH SHANTZ
... he was frustrated

was shouted down by the government, led by Premier Bennett's call for "order" and "question."

"You're the most discourteous premier I've ever seen," cried Mr. Strachan.

"You're the most discourteous leader I've ever seen," replied the premier angrily.

"You're just being absurd."

The challenge was voted on, and the Speaker upheld, 31 to 15, the Liberals voting with the government.

Mr. Bennett said the farmers had asked for the new amendment anyway.

A vote was called on second reading. It was 45 to one.

One against was Mr. Dowding.

Mr. Strachan explained he had to vote for the principle of the bill to give farmers legal protection anyway.

Said Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston to Mr. Richter:

"Why did you bring in such controversial legislation, Frank?"

By the very nature of formal education, schools as they are set up in Canada and the U.S. stifle curiosity and creativity and reward conformity.

"Too bad, you say? Of course it is."

But look at the other side of the coin. The teacher has 30 to 40 little wigglers in her class. She must see that the lessons are learned. Examination times leaves no room for doubt.

Examinations demand facts. They test the child's understanding of ideas. In most examinations the child can initiate nothing. He must know what the textbook said; he must do as the teacher told him to do.

After examination, the subject is closed, as far as the school is concerned.

But wait a minute! Curiosity leads to knowing more than the teacher says you must know.

KEEP IT ALIVE

No matter how good schools are, children need parents who keep curiosity alive. One of the thrilling things about being a parent is the opportunity to encourage—not squelch—curiosity and creativity.

I know a busy mother of five who provides drawing, model-making materials, etc., and places her children on their own during the hour that she prepares dinner.

A small child brings her a peculiar looking picture. "What a nice picture!" she says. "Tell me about it."

She never makes the mistake of saying, "Oh, you drew a horse," when the child meant it a ship. If an adult makes that type of mistake too often, the child quits drawing or at least quits showing his art to adults.

'SELF-STARTERS'

This mother's youngsters are "self-starters." Their curiosities and drives for creative expression are dominant and satisfying.

Not long ago this family went to a home without children where there were few playthings. The children pounced joyfully on a pile of odd-shaped blocks of wood left over from cabinet work. They concocted boats, castles, cabins, cars. They liked them so much they took them home!

Children need chances to practise creativity and they need to exercise their imaginations and resources without a parental accompaniment of: "No! No! That's not the way to do it."

Let a child do it his own way unless he asks for help or you realize a suggestion from you will prevent frustration or failure. Encourage him to learn more about each school subject than the teacher requires. This habit will carry over beyond his school years.

If your child has intellectual curiosity, encourage him to ask questions and look up the answers. If he has a project, encourage him, but don't take over. Remember, it is his project.

If he starts woodworking in the garage, don't crowd around and breathe down his neck. And don't go downtown and buy him a complete kit of tools.

HOUSE SITS TONIGHT, THURSDAY

The B.C. legislature moved into more night sittings today. The budget debate was due to wind up this afternoon with only two MLAs to speak: Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston for the government and Randolph Harding (NDP-CCF—Kaslo-Slocan) for the Opposition.

Tonight, starting at 8.30, the MLAs are due to start discussing detailed estimates for each department in the new budget. The premier's estimates come first.

Mr. Bennett announced Monday evening that another night sitting is planned Thursday.

VETERANS' PENSIONS CUT AS OLD AGE HIKED

OTTAWA (CP)—About 29,000 recipients of war veterans' and widows' allowances will take a $10 cut because of the extra $10 being paid as of Feb. 1 to all old age pensioners at 70 or more.

Officials of the veterans affairs department gave the estimate today. The reduction is to keep within the allowable income ceilings for veterans and veterans' widows.

These were increased by 20 per cent last June. The maximum monthly rate that can be paid is $84 for single persons and $144 for married couples, subject to a means test.

Mr. Dowding challenged his ruling. Mr. Strachan tried to make a point of order but he

The Major Challenge

PRESIDENT KENNEDY defines as "the major domestic challenge of the sixties" the creation of 25,000 extra jobs per week in the United States. That is the measure of the nation's growing population, its labor force and its unemployment problem.

Some experts think that the President's figures err on the side of optimism. To assure full employment, they say, 35,000 extra jobs must be provided every week during the next five years. But if it is impossible to gauge these prospects exactly, there can be no doubt that the impact of automation and other technical change confronts the United States with the largest economic problems since the great depression.

The same sort of problem faces Canada. Its rough measurement was provided a few months ago by Dr. John Deutsch, the distinguished economist of Queen's University, when he was acting as expert adviser to a Senate committee on unemployment.

According to Dr. Deutsch, Canada must create a million additional jobs during the next four years if it is to achieve full employment—that is to say, a normal unemployment rate of something like three per cent of the labor force, since some workers will always be unemployed as they change from one job to another.

A million new jobs in four years is a formidable figure. It means that we should be increasing our employed labor force by some 250,000 persons every year, or by about 5,000 per week. Since the American economy is about 14 times as large as ours and needs at least 25,000 new jobs per week, it is clear that our problem in Canada is proportionately much larger than that of our neighbors.

Dr. Deutsch does not believe, and no sensible man can believe, that the present cyclical upswing in Canadian business will solve the unemployment problem, even if it continues through the average cycle. As Dr. Deutsch says, the problem will not be solved by temporary economic fluctuations or mere palliatives. It is too fundamental for that because it reflects an economy organically out of joint.

The cure, too, will have to be organic (though the facts doubtless will be blurred; briefly, in a general election campaign). But there can be no single cure as one might suppose from the over-simplifications of an election debate.

A wide variety of measures will be required and, in Dr. Deutsch's opinion, one above all: Canada, he says, must concentrate on the production of the things it can make best and most economically instead of trying to make "drips and drabs" of everything, regardless of cost.

As Dr. Deutsch warns us, "loud calls for more sweat and brawn will bring little result if the wrong kind of work is done. The attempt to maintain or expand output for which markets are falling, or which cannot be exported to advantage, is wasted effort."

Yet that precisely, over a substantial part of our economy, is what we are trying to do. And by the attempt to shore up uneconomic industries instead of expanding the economic ones we shall not create the million new jobs needed by our people in the next four years.

The Reincarnation of Mr. Argue

MR. HAZEN ARGUE'S SUDDEN conversion to Liberalism is remarkable, both in its speed and its ambiguity. On one day this gentleman is an ardent leader of the New Democratic Party and sits in its highest secret councils. On the next he is an independent. And a few days later he is a full-fledged Liberal, though he has been attacking the Liberal Party and advocating socialism for 17 years. The reincarnation of Mr. Argue is breathtaking.

But is it complete? While Mr. Argue now declares his devotion to Mr. Pearson (whom he once called "the greatest mistake in the Liberal Party's history") and accepts a seat in the Liberal caucus, that is hardly enough. If his sincerity is to be generally believed something more will be expected.

Abolish the Hangman

CANADA'S METHOD OF EXECUTION touches only the periphery of the much larger question of capital punishment.

At the same time, the bill introduced into Parliament the other day by Miss Judy La Marsh, Liberal member for Niagara Falls, deserves very serious consideration. She has proposed that where capital punishment is ordered, the gas chamber be used instead of the gallows.

This would be at least a step removed from the barbarity of hanging. Continued use of the hangman—surely a relic of the very Dark Ages—is an affront to Canada's reputation as a civilized country.

The debate on capital punishment will continue in this nation for years to come. The maintenance of the noose and the gallows has no place in that debate. Miss La Marsh's bill should be passed by a free vote of the Commons and approved by the Senate.

A Plea to Start Thinking

THE best argument in favor of the Canadian Peace Research Institute is the argument generally used against it. The men promoting this movement, it is widely said, must be pacifists, possibly Communist sympathizers or even intellectuals. Here we have the good old ad hominem argument, invariably used when all else fails—the argument which refuses to consider the facts and smears the men because that is always easier.

It will be somewhat difficult, however, to convince the public that all the promoters of the institute are fat-headed fools or secret traitors. Two of them well known to me hardly seem to fit this category. Hon. Robert Mayhew was once a highly practical cabinet minister and is now Victoria's most eminent citizen. Dr. Brock Chisholm is not only a psychiatrist but a major-general and veteran of two world wars.

NO DOUBT we shall soon be told that they, and other like them, are merely dupes and innocent front men of a neutralist or Communist conspiracy.

As soon as any man talks about a study of peace he is suspect. Study war, if you will, or abstract art or Sanskrit but not peace, which is becoming a dangerous and dirty word.

In a furious political argument at my table the other day, for instance, an intelligent lady denounced Mr. Lester Pearson not because he was a Liberal, or because his policies were wrong but because he was obsessed with peace. Why, he had won the Nobel Prize!

THERE is no use trying to meet the lady's logic outside a lunatic asylum anyway, but it demonstrates at once why an impartial look at this matter of peace might be useful. It might be useful, I mean, to consider the facts as well as the personalities and the propaganda; to think as well as to talk.

For on the subject of peace we have almost stopped thinking, in boredom and despair, until even the most obvious of all facts has lost its impact by constant repetition, as a man learns to sleep in the roar of a great city. Silence is requested for the benefit of those who have retired from the human race.

The most obvious fact is that, as we are going now, the last war will be inevitable, if not by design then by accident. On any candid chart the graphs of peace and war, projected ahead, are seen to meet in the final catastrophe, but a kind nature blurs our eyes to this mathematical certainty, enabling us to live numbly, even happily, in the constant presence of universal death.

IF A research into the facts of war and peace served only to make us think a little about our actual situation it would be worth a few million dollars when our expenditures on armaments—quite rightly, in that situation—are measured by countless billions.

We might then go on to consider what the Russians are really trying to do, what we on our side are trying to do, whether the two things are forever incompatible and, if so, precisely why. It will be said that we know the answers already, that the Russians are the Bad Guys and we are the Good Guys, which no doubt is true, but rather over-simplifies a problem more complex than a western on television.

We may know, or assume we know, what the Bad Guys are trying to do. Any man who honestly asks himself what we, the Good Guys, are trying to do is unlikely to get a clear answer.

IT WILL be said, next, that our governments, the United Nations, the whole apparatus of the world community, are already studying these questions and no further study is needed. We can safely leave everything to the politicians who are paid to do our thinking for us and one of whom has been authorized, on his single judgment, to push the hell button whenever he sees fit.

This comfortable reliance on the politician misses the whole point. By the nature of politics no democratic statesman can ever tell the whole truth without prejudice if he is to protect what he regards as his own nation's special interests or if, indeed, he is to get elected.

IF THERE is to be any factual, wide-open study of peace as the supreme riddle and necessity of our time it will have to be conducted outside politics.

Should the Peace Research Institute require a distinguished witness on that score it might summon Mr. Eisenhower, who, on leaving politics, and not before, asked the American people to think where they were going.

In his farewell address, and in sudden agony of soul, the old soldier said that his nation's gigantic military establishment and the overwhelming dependence of its economy on a gigantic armament industry created "the potential for the disastrous rise of misplaced power. . . . We must never let the weight of this combination endanger our liberties or democratic process."

Mr. Kennedy said the same thing a few days ago but more softly, because he is still in politics.

THOUGH neither of these gentlemen will be suspected of softness toward Communism; both plead with their people to start thinking. They know that the task of democracy would be infinitely easier if people would only think instead of parroting stale slogans which are woven, strand on strand, to tie our statesmen and strangle their initiative like so many Gullivers in the hands of the screaming Lilliputians. Perhaps another little think wouldn't do us any harm.

As Our Readers See It

Who's Centennial?

I don't know why I am writing this letter, other than I'm disgusted with the useless effort the Centennial Committee is putting forth on behalf of Victoria's 100th birthday, and then to cap all they call an American for ideas and personnel to help them out.

Why don't they step outside of their own little clique and look for men and women who live amongst us for ideas on what to do in this, our 100th birthday?

There are people living about us who have made a great contribution to the building up of this wonderful country of ours and I'm sure if they were asked would be willing to help. Anyhow let us stage our own birthday instead of spending a few thousand dollars across the line on their ideas.

We are Canadians living in Canada. Surely we are capable of doing our own thinking. I'm just fed up with these people who haven't guts enough to stand on their own feet and have to cry help to those across the line for their ideas, when ours could be a whole lot better.

We like to see the Americans come up to visit us and they like to come, but they don't want to see a duplicate of their own towns, they have come to see Canada and the Canadian way of life.

VICTORIAN

Geography Lesson

It has always been a matter of astonishment to me that in Victoria among the broadcasting stations and the newspapers there seems to be such abysmal ignorance (even after more than a hundred years) of the geographical features of Vancouver Island. This ignorance could be passed over in the case of cub reporters, but when an editorial shows this ignorance it is in my opinion indeed time that the whole staff of Victoria Times have a elementary geography lesson as regards to the island on which they dwell. I make special reference to the editorial in the Times of Feb. 19, "To Protect the Salmon," which refers to "Bear River entering Johnson Straits at the north end of Vancouver Island." As the crow flies Bear River and Johnson Straits are only barely past the halfway mark in terms of length of Vancouver Island and well over 100 miles from the north end.

How can Vancouver Island get its rightful due when such ignorance is evinced at Victoria?

Abolish the Fiat

As a small shareholder of the B.C. Power Corporation, I wish to protest the manner in which the B.C. Government confiscated the B.C. Electric Company—not because I feel my shares are worth more than the government has offered (which I do) but because we shareholders have been refused permission to go to court.

This to me is shocking. The right to appeal to the courts in case of a dispute is a sacred right, one that dates back to the Magna Carta. In the United States it is protected by the constitution. As far as federal statutes in Canada are concerned, our right to appeal to the courts is safeguarded by the Bill of Rights which, unfortunately, does not apply to the actions of the provincial government. Apparently we're in Canada, trust our provincial governments to treat us fairly. In the case of British Columbia, what a mistake that was!

Obviously the time is long past when we can blindly trust the government—any government—to do the honorable thing. We must have some statutory protection against the whims of an irresponsible legislature. I would suggest that the fiat system be abolished—it has no place in the modern world. Provincial governments today are in business, and it should be possible for a citizen or a company to sue them as they would any other legal entity. I'm sure that if we shareholders were granted this right—the right to put our case before the courts—then there would be no further complaint and we would accept the court's decision regardless of which way it went.

It is notable that only two provinces still retain the outmoded system—B.C. and Newfoundland. It dates back to the time when the king "could do no wrong" and therefore could not be sued unless he granted his permission. Why is British Columbia government lagging so far behind the times? Don't we believe in democratic rights as much as people living in Saskatchewan or Nova Scotia?

This isn't a matter that affects just B.C. Power shareholders. We're the victims today, but tomorrow it could be you or your neighbors denied access to the courts. This is a matter of vital importance to every man, woman and child making their home in this province. Let's not be second-class citizens. Let's enjoy the same rights as other Canadians do.

UNJUSTLY WRONGED.

Really you may be amazed in seeing my letter, but you could agree with me that I am a curious boy and like to read a lot. I am so yearn to study the ways of life of other nations and their geography as well, for it is through that, that one's knowledge of understanding will be preserved and increase.

So to bring about natural understanding in other countries it is through corresponding that these processes can be facilitated. Therefore I was reading through the library books at school, I was delighted when I happen to come across your address in one Canadian pamphlet and immediately seized the opportunity of writing to you so that you will help me to divert the attention of the readers of your lovely newspaper by printing my letter that I desire to have friends regardless of age or sex whom I can correspond with regularly.

Furthermore, to introduce myself, I am African boy of 18 years old, 5 ft. 2 ins. tall and brown in complexion. My family is composed of seven people and I am in Grade 11 in school.

My hobbies are stamp collecting, reading, games, sports, collecting coins and exchanging gifts with friends.

With thanks, I shall have to close up my pen, till I hear from you soon.

May God almighty crown your efforts with success. (Amen.)

Algerian Peace in Sight: While the French Army Looks On, Silent and Enigmatic

By William Millinship, from Paris

FRANCE'S long and bitter struggle in Algeria, which now seems to be nearing its end, began in a small way seven years and four months ago, in the early hours of November 1, 1954. Poorly-armed commando units, at first mistaken for bandits, launched attacks at scattered points throughout Algeria, but without spectacular success.

They combined military operations and terrorism from the start. Four French soldiers were killed in the Batna region, Eastern Algeria. In the Aures mountains, rebels stopped a motor-coach, ordered a young French schoolteacher and his wife to get out, and murdered them by the roadside.

The French premier at the time was M. Pierre Mendes-France. He had begun seven months in power by negotiating the end of the Indo-Chinese war at a conference in Geneva on July 20. Eleven days later he had made a dramatic surprise visit to Carthage for the first move in leading Tunisia to independence.

But, despite his enlightened attitude to colonial, and particularly North African problems (his appointment of the then left-wing Gaullist Jacques Soustelle as governor-general had been at first resented by the European settlers), he immediately sent troop reinforcements to Algeria. Promising "repression without weakness" he said France would never regard Algeria as other than a French province.

Few people in France disagreed with him at the time. The fiction that Algeria was part of France, proclaimed by French history books, was generally believed.

On the surface, Algeria seemed calm enough, while France continued her "civilizing mission," bringing hospitals, schools and roads to a backward country. The rising, when it came, was not general or widespread, it seemed merely the first spark of a rebellion without popular support, which the police, the Foreign Legion, and army units battle-trained in Indo-China would rapidly stamp out.

But the rebellion had deep roots. It marked the end of the long struggle by Muslim nationalists to obtain political, economic and social rights by means of democratic action and reform.

Since French troops landed in Algeria in 1830, European settlers had gradually taken over most of the best land and, through powerful parliamentary lobbies, had defeated or sabotaged all attempts by French governments to reduce their privileges.

They controlled the local administration which concentrated power in Algiers and left large areas of the country to tax collectors, troops and caids, frequently corrupt Muslim officials appointed by the French.

Algerian nationalist movements were banned as soon as they began to look dangerous, and their leaders imprisoned. The higher branches of the Algerian civil service were closed to Muslims, however well educated.

The hope that the Second World War would change things was shattered when France was still celebrating victory in Europe. At Setif, where there was a severe food shortage, Muslims marching in a VE-Day parade unfurled nationalist banners. A policeman panicked and killed a demonstrator.

The Muslims ran wild and, by the end of the day, had murdered close on 200 Europeans.

The punitive expedition that followed was of extreme violence. Muslim villages were shelled by French warships and strafed from the air, while European civilians joined the army in the indiscriminate slaughter. Some French officials said about 10,000 Muslims were killed. Nationalists put the figure at over 40,000.

The repression convinced some nationalists that armed rebellion was the only answer. Others, like M. Ferhat Abbas, persisted in their campaign for reforms.

The French Parliament in 1947 passed a timid, hybrid reform bill, which proclaimed full equality between all French citizens in Algeria, yet set up an Algerian Assembly in which the nine million Muslims and the one million Europeans each had 60 representatives.

The Europeans thought even this was going too far. They cynically and openly rigged elections and prevented the application of the main reforms, which included the vote for Muslim women, the recognition of Arabic as an official language, and the suppression of the "communes-mixtes" which were administered by officials instead of elected councils.

Paris suffered another defeat, when M. Guy Mollet, the Socialist premier elected to end the Algerian war, capitulated before the tomato-throwing Algerian mob in February, 1956. Instead of the liberal-minded General Catroux, he appointed M. Robert Lacoste as minister-resident in Algeria.

By this time, the rebellion, with financial and military aid from Arab and Eastern bloc countries, had built up an effective fighting force recruiting its troops from the mass of Muslim unemployed.

The National Liberation Front (FLN) had become a powerful political and diplomatic machine. It employed propaganda and terrorism to establish control over the Muslim population of Algeria. Atrocities were committed on both sides. The FLN executed and mutilated "traitors," while French troops systematically tortured "suspects."

In 1956, the FLN brought terrorism to the main towns. M. Lacoste's response was to give General Massu and his paratroops a free hand in Algiers. He turned a blind eye to the methods used to win the "Battle of Algiers."

M. Mollet's government held secret talks with FLN representatives, but they came to nothing. The army, on its own initiative, forced down a Moroccan aircraft carrying Mohamed Ben Bella and four other FLN chiefs from Morocco to a conference in Tunis. The French government once more submitted, and accepted the fait accompli. M. Mollet dispatched conscripts to reinforce the regular army units in Algeria.

In February, 1958, the army again acted on its own initiative and bombed the Tunisian village of Sakiet. The French government, now under M. Felix Gaillard, covered the action, but later accepted Anglo-U.S. good offices in negotiations with Tunisia.

M. Gaillard's government fell, and the crisis dragged on for a month. It was the end of the Fourth Republic, and the Algerian settlers' greatest success over Paris.

For years they had dictated to French governments, resisting reforms that might have prevented the war and negotiations that might have ended it. The French army, determined not to be robbed of victory by Paris politicians, was also out of control.

Acting together, though for different motives, officers and settlers brought General de Gaulle to power on the understanding that he would keep Algeria French.

The Fifth Republic was founded on a misunderstanding, and its history to date has centred on President de Gaulle's efforts to establish authority over his former supporters, while seeking a peaceful solution to the war.

He introduced political, social and economic reforms in Algeria which would have appeared revolutionary 10 years earlier.

In the unsuccessful "barricade" revolt in January, 1960, the Algiers crowds for the first time failed to impose their will on France. But, unsure of the army, General de Gaulle hesitated to negotiate on equal terms with the FLN, which by then was demanding outright independence. The French army, on General de Gaulle's orders, was hitting the FLN troops harder than ever before.

The turning point came in December, 1960, when the Muslims broke their long silence and demonstrated their overwhelming support for the FLN. The demonstration ended the fiction that the FLN was a minority force, and explained why half a million heavily-armed French troops had failed to crush the rebellion.

It has nevertheless taken well over a year to end a useless war in which two million Muslims were forcibly removed from their homes to "regroupment" camps and an unknown number killed—certainly more than 200,000, probably over half a million.

Even now, the Franco-Algerian ceasefire will not necessarily put an immediate end to the bloodshed and suffering. The European terrorist Organization of the Secret Army (OAS) is determined to sabotage the peace agreement. The European settlers, resisting change to the last, still hope to dictate policy to Paris, while the French army looks on, silent and enigmatic.

REPORTING

OTTAWA — Only short months ago, in the wake of the socialist-labor marriage last July, there were many long faces among the Liberals in Parliament. The Grits gloomily anticipated the New Democratic Party would make big inroads into the Liberal vote.

All this has now changed. The Liberals reacted with surprised relief to the results of the NDP campaign in the five Ontario provincial by-elections Jan. 18, and the Weyburn, Sask., by-election a month earlier. The Ontario by-elections showed that trade unionist voters were not as strongly behind the NDP as the Liberals had feared. And the Weyburn result, a Grit win, gives the Liberals great hope that, with the accession of Hazen Argue to the Liberal Party, the western farmers will swing to Liberalism.

The Liberals no longer consider the NDP a very serious threat — especially as they have been told by Argue, with supporting intelligence from other NDP sources, that NDP leader Tommy Douglas would lead his MPs into a coalition government with the Grits if such action were deemed to establish a majority over the Conservatives in the next Parliament.

All in all, the Liberals' election prospects are excellent so far. NDP opposition is concerned, and the balance of political power has shifted towards strengthening the two-party system.

In entering the Liberal party, where he will try to fill the long-empty shoes of former farm minister Jimmy Gardiner, Argue might well be embarrassed by words of antagonism and ridicule that he hurled at the Grits when he was CCF leader and NDP House leader. For example, he is on record as having said

Mike Pearson is the biggest mistake the Liberal party ever made. This takes some talking around. Argue is doing it.

Now Argue opines that Pearson "will make a great prime minister." But he considers Pearson is miscast as an opposition leader. John Diefenbaker, says Argue, is a poor prime minister, but he will make an excellent opposition leader.

That, seemingly, is all that Argue meant when he called Pearson the Grits' biggest mistake. A mistake isn't usually so adroitly explainable as being, in reality, a factor of great strength.

For those who care to look back 70-odd years, the case of Tory turncoat Israel Tarte has fascinating aspects in light of Argue's flip from the NDP to the Grits.

In order to hail Sir Wilfrid Laurier as his new leader, Tarte had to swallow such words as his declaration that Sir Wilfrid was a man without principles or patriotism. Tarte was instrumental in bringing about the Liberal victory in the 1896 election that made Laurier prime minister. Then, when Laurier was in England, Tarte tried to supplant him.

Tarte was a man of great wit, charm and intelligence, and used to justify his political instability with an epigram. "A man who never changes his mind," Tarte would say, "never uses his mind."

Argue hasn't that kind of wit. But he could have the same kind of effect on the Pearson bid for the prime ministership that Tarte had on the Laurier bid in 1896. "One part of our satisfaction," Pearson said Friday in welcoming the erstwhile New Democrat into the Liberal fold, "is that Mr. Argue will be running as a Liberal and helping other Liberals in the practices to get elected."

Women: Management Problem

WASHINGTON—While leafing through a stack of congressional newsletters, I ran across an item that set me all a twitter.

The Small Business Administration, it said, had published a pamphlet explaining "How to Manage Women."

Now here, I exclaimed to myself, is a federal agency that understands the meaning of public service. Rarely does one find the government showing such an awareness of what the citizenry needs.

The SBA pamphlet obviously would be of value not only to small businessmen, but to large businessmen and even non-businessmen, possibly including newspapermen.

I mean it is common knowledge that women have been getting more unmanageable by the hour. Feeling that there was not a moment to lose, I beat it over to the SBA headquarters to pick up a copy of the pamphlet.

I found upon my arrival that a lot of other male minds had been running in the same channel. The agency already had exhausted its supply of the pamphlets and had a big backlog of orders on file.

Fortunately, I was able to borrow a copy and immediately undertook to memorize its contents. I wanted to be well briefed on the subject before I went home that night.

Sad to relate, the pamphlet is a bit too narrow in scope for my purposes. It deals primarily with managing woman employees, rather than with women in general.

Nevertheless, it sets forth some broad principles (no pun intended) that can be applied non-commercially by substituting the word "husband" where the word "employer" appears.

"Women," the pamphlet says, "are different. They tend to personalize situations. . . some women magnify minor details because they often feel that they are the centre around which other people revolve."

Women like to be praised and dislike being corrected, particularly in front of other women. They become annoyed when rushed and are touchy about working overtime.

Above all, women resent anything that makes them suspect they are being treated unfairly. They don't function well unless convinced that they are on equal terms with men.

In an effort to help an employer cope with these traits, the pamphlet lists 22 hints that supposedly will aid in the management of women. It seems to me, however, that the whole thing can be summed up in one sentence:

Don't treat a woman like a woman, but at the same time make certain you don't treat her like a man.

SYNOPSIS—A weak weather disturbance moved through northern B.C. overnight and passed over the rest of the province today. Although the storm is weak it will probably give a few snowflurries to most areas as it moves southward. Rising pressures following the storm will bring at least partial clearing to the northern sections today and the south tonight. In spite of the increase in cloud there is no sign that the cold spell will break appreciable in the next two days.

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

It has long been held by a segment of society that the medical profession has been known to be overpaid for its efforts to patch up humanity. But that headline in Monday's paper must have sent Drs. Casey and Kildare to screaming: "Saturday's Work Pays $100,000 to Physician."

By this time, the sawbones have undoubtedly learned that "Physician" is four-legged, frisky and the winner of the $145,000 Santa Anita Handicap.

WILLIE SHOEMAKER

If his success had doctors in a flap, think what it must have done to the thousands who planted next month's rent on the nose of Four-and-Twenty. This one went to the post at odds of 3-5, almost prohibitive when you consider the obstacles he had to overcome.

Certainly he had won three consecutive stakes. But perhaps he had stayed awake all night counting the carrots $100,000 would buy.

Leslie, at 14 cents a pound that works out to 1,396,432. Or maybe his morning porridge was lumpy. Or maybe his master, John Longden, was so weary from counting his money he did not have enough strength left to put any zip into his whipping. Come to think of it, Longden should have tried an old trick Bill Lochead used. Whenever Bill wanted to win a big pot, he would take his horse into the winner's circle early in the morning and say, quite seriously: "Now, look here, son. This is where I want to meet you this afternoon."

Exactly how effective this was nobody knows for sure. But it is significant that veteran railbirds watching the pair's dawn ritual seldom failed to get a bet down on Lochead's horse that afternoon.

Revealing was the comment of Longden before the race. Asked by Gil Stratton: "Does anyone in this race bother you?" Longden said: "Yes, about 12 of them. They're all good."

Longden had tongue in cheek at the time. But the fact is that on a given day, it is possible for the best horse on paper not to be the best horse when they hand out the carrots.

The suspicion here is that circumstances, not Physician, took Four-and-Twenty to the cleaners.

Item: Four-and-Twenty lost the benefit of a tighter two weeks ago when he sustained a slight leg injury. He has been training reasonably well but a morning workout is no substitute for a race. He hadn't run since Jan. 27.

Item: The Rex Ellsworth barn (Olden Times-Prove It) had the horses to cope with F and T. Olden Times could have been early. Prove It could hit him when his battery was run down. Nobody seriously thought Physician could operate in this society.

For people who get a kind of sadistic enjoyment out of seeing the man who has everything catch a lemon pie smack in the teeth the race had everything.

There was Willie (Moneybags) Shoemaker and Alex Maese, Ellsworth's riders, talking about their 75-25 split of the purse money.

"What about Don Pierce?" (Physician's rider and the third man in the entry) they were asked.

"I guess he's an orphan," smiled Shoemaker, benignly. Then there was Pierce, smiling in the winner's circle. Asked what he would do with his share—$10,000—he said: "Spend it!"

I would have paid anything (even a used $2 win ticket on Four-and-Twenty) to have been in the riders' room when Pierce ran into Shoemaker and Maese. It is not difficult to imagine him sticking the needle in . . . well, you know how far.

Whatever Pierce said, it's not difficult to imagine him finishing with . . . and if you wanted to know who was going to win, you should have asked my wife. She told me this morning that I would win this one.

A light rain was falling after the race but that was a bright glow coming from the face of Physician's owner, Lynn Boice, in the winner's circle.

Until a few minutes before the entry box closed, he was undecided as to whether to run his horse.

"C'mon," he was urged by Ellsworth. "You only have a few minutes to make up your mind."

"Oh, alright," Boice said. "I guess we might as well go ahead and blow the bundle," referring to the $1,500 he had to put up for his horse to start.

He shot the bundle and he got the bundle. As befitted the breeder, as well as the owner and trainer—"I've carried him around in the palm of my hand since he was a baby"—Boice had every right to feel that all the rain clouds over Santa Anita that day had a silver lining.

Quebec Rink Breaks Western Domination

REGINA (CP)—An unbeaten Mount Royal, Que., rink faced stiff competition today in the Canadian women's curling championships.

The rink, skipped by Anne Phillips, dropped Prince Edward Island 10-4 in the opening round Monday, then squeezed past Ontario's Fern Irwin 8-7 in an extra end.

In the three rounds today the Phillips rink was to meet Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Manitoba's Kathleen Hebert and Saskatchewan's Joyce McKee also have 2-0 records. Vera Reed of Calgary was almost knocked out of serious contention, losing 10-9 to British Columbia in the first round and bowing 11-2 to Saskatchewan in the second.

Ina Hansen of Kimberley, B.C., remained undefeated by beating New Brunswick 10-7 in the second round.

Saskatchewan's Joyce McKee rink, despite having two three-enders scored against it, beat Ontario 12-8 in the first round. Attendance was less than 1,000 for both rounds. Officials blame the wind—driven cold for the small crowds. Temperatures were between 20 and 30 below all day.

British Columbia 2, Saskatchewan 0, Manitoba 1, Ontario 1, New Brunswick 0, Newfoundland 0, Alberta 0, Nova Scotia 0, Prince Edward Island 0.

Down to Semifinals. BERLIN (AP)—The East German Motor team of Jena beat Portugal's Leixoes of Oporto 3-1 in Gera, East Germany, Sunday to reach the semifinals of the European tournament of soccer cup winners.

RUSSIAN MASTERS PLAY MATCH . . .

Blondes, Brunettes Tie in Red Chess

By PRESTON GROVER
MOSCOW (AP)—Shapely ballerinas served as human pawns in a giant chess game between two Soviet grand masters at the sports palace Monday night.

The match between Mikhail Botvinnik, the present world champion, and Vasily Smyslov, former world titleholder, ended in a draw—with three blondes and three brunettes left on the floor.

The unique match drew a crowd of 15,000 to Moscow's huge indoor arena, the Russian equivalent of New York's Madison Square Garden.

A big chess board was laid out on the floor usually given over to basketball, hockey and speeches by Premier Khrushchev.

Instead of cold, lifeless pieces of carved wood or 'SAY, CHAPS, IT'S ME, THE REF . . .

The life of a hockey referee is quite simple. All you have to do is skate, face-off pucks and chat with the timekeeper. You think so? Tell it to Ken Partiss. Assigned to handle an Eastern Professional League game between Hull-Ottawa and Kingston, Partiss found himself enmeshed with skirmishing players and an exuberant fan waving a cowbell. Miraculously he emerged unscathed, made his point by assessing four penalties. Hull-Ottawa won the game, 3-2. (CP Wirephoto.)

Mighty 'Spurs Go Marching On

LONDON (CP)—Britain began beating the drum today on behalf of Tottenham Hotspur, regarded as one of the greatest soccer teams ever assembled in this country.

As 64,000 supporters chanted "Glory—Glory—Hallelujah, a.n.d. Spurs go Marching On," the Spurs stormed into the European Cup semi-finals with a 4-1 victory Monday night over Dukla, the Czechoslovak army team.

Despite a carpet of snow and chill winds, Tottenham scored twice in the first half to wipe out a 1-0 lead Dukla had achieved in the opening game of the home-and-home series.

Early in the second half, Dukla broke through to make it 2-2 on the round, but Tottenham struck back quickly with two goals within 60 seconds and thus became the second British team to make the European Cup semi-finals since the competition was launched in 1954.

RETURNS TO FAVOR
Tottenham weaved intricate passing patterns despite the sticky going. Bobby Smith, ex-blacksmith from Redcar in Yorkshire, scored two goals, one on a brilliant header, to clinch his return to form. Earlier he was demoted to the reserves because of lackluster performances.

Two goals also went to Dave Mackay, granite-like halfback who played at inside left Monday night.

Tottenham will meet Benfica of Portugal, the cup holders, in the semi-final. Standard Liege of Belgium will meet the winners of the quarter final between Real Madrid and Juventus of Italy, who play in Paris Wednesday.

Spurs have played five games since Feb. 12. They are second in the English Football League

NANAIMO—Three goals by Bob Large speeded Duncan Falcons to a 9-5 victory over Nanaimo Aces and the Mid-Island Hockey League finals. Duncan swept the best-of-three series in straight games.

Falcons will meet the winner of the Lake Cowichan-Arrowsmith series. The latter teams played to a 5-5 standoff Sunday. Lake Cowichan won the first game 6-4.

MONTE CARLO (AP)—Lea Pericoli of Italy won the women's singles title of the Monte Carlo international tennis tournament Sunday by defeating Ann Barclay of Toronto and Vancouver 6-3, 7-5.

His pro career started and ended in St. Nicholas Arena Monday night when he was knocked out by Norman Casaberry of Brooklyn N.Y., in 14 seconds of the first round of a scheduled four-round preliminary.

DIVISIONAL TOURNEY

Victoria Offered Diamond Tidbit

The Tyes are dead and the Yankees are a million miles away, but hold on—there's going to be a rip-dandy of a baseball series here this centennial summer.

The Northwest Divisional Little League baseball tournament—the second most important LL playoff on the Pacific Coast—will be held in Victoria Aug. 8-11.

Vancouver Island director Wilf Cain made the announcement Monday.

Victoria Centennial Committee quickly added its support to the big Little League diamond show to be held at Jaycee Park. Additional bleachers will likely be added to extend the park's 600 seating capacity.

BIGGER NOW

The tourney is a repeat for Victoria but officials claim the 1962 version will be much larger than the original.

The tourney will feature one team from B.C., Oregon, Washington and a probably Hawaii and Alaska. If the last two states can't make it, Idaho will be the fourth entry.

To gain entry, Victoria's LL champions must first win the B.C. finals, scheduled for Vancouver Aug. 3-4.

ON TO SERIES

After the divisional finals, the winners travel to Vancouver for the regional finals. Out of four teams remaining from 1,000 leagues will emerge the Pacific Coast representative to the LL World Series in Williamsport, Conn.

National League president Hank Graas will chair the committee for the Victoria tournament.

Help and advice will come from Al Houghton, western regional director of LL, and Howard Gair, LL empire consultant. Both will speak in Victoria March 25.

To finalize plans for the approaching season, all 13 city Little Leagues are asked to have representatives at a meeting March 11 at 1 p.m. at Jaycee Park.

Change of Pace?
VANCOUVER — Joe Kapp, No. 1 football quarterback of British Columbia Lions, has become the public relations officer for the Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast Baseball League.

Champ's Father, Jim Wagner, Dies

TORONTO (CP)—James H. Wagner, 60, prominent figure skating official and father of skating star Barbara Wagner, died in hospital Monday.

The Hamilton native served on organizing committees for Canadian championships held here last weekend. Barbara, with partner Bob Paul of Toronto, won the World and Olympic pairs championship in 1960.

Boudreau Paces Hopper Victory

The grasshoppers were hopping Monday and Claudia Boudreau was the busiest of the lot.

Claudia fired seven goals as the Grasshoppers walloped Victoria College B team 11-1 in Victoria Women's Grass Hockey League action.

TEE TOPICS

By ERNIE FEDORUK

It's an oft-declared belief, that nobody living here was born in Victoria. They were born in Nokomis, Sask., or Punkyducks, Corriers, Ont., or at Royal Park, Alta.

Then they come. Walter Henry Gravlin provides the exception.

born right in Oak Bay.

But for the short period when Kaiser Wilhelm turned troublemaker, and Walter sided with the peacemaking corps, Oak Bay and its suburbs is where Gravlin has worked, and lived, and played all of his life.

The Uplands' professional is golf's undisputed "elder statesman" on Vancouver Island.

Golf courses, and pros, come and go, but Gravlin remains as Uplands' most notable figure. Uplands has always had Gravlin, and Gravlin has always had Uplands. When they transformed the old farm field into what is now known as the Uplands Golf Club, the first keys to the first pro shop went to W. H. Gravlin. The master keys, and all his because Walter's is the longest association any active professional has ever enjoyed with a major Canadian golf club.

He Gave It a Try 'For a Month'

That's quite a mark for a one-time pro baseball player who stepped into professional golf on a trial basis "just for a month."

Walter barged into golf in typical fashion—as a 12-year-old who began to caddy and hunt golf balls around Victoria Golf Club in order to earn some pocket money. In time, and after school was out, he helped the late Jack Moffat around the Oak Bay pro shop.

The First World War interrupted Walter's life, as it did for thousands of others.

"When we came back," Gravlin recalled the other day, "we were restless. I couldn't make up my mind about what to do. Then the late Jim Woods asked me to the United Services Club—the old course at Macaulay Point."

Walter wasn't sure about a pro's job. Mr. Woods finally convinced him "to give it a try for a month." That was in 1919, and the game has never let Walter out of its clutches. When the Macaulay Point membership moved to Uplands on July 1, 1922, Walter Gravlin went with them. Uplands honored Gravlin's long service with a life membership on Nov. 17, 1955.

... And a Slick One at Shortstop

Lengthy association with Uplands seems to prevail in the pro shop. Assistant John Wren, acknowledged as one of the best starters in the business, teamed up with Walter in 1923. You can detract the year and a half during which Wren spent his hours as the club pro if Nainaimo, but their association provides still another mark that may be unmatched in Canadian golf.

And Chuck Brown, the custodian of the clubs, joined the act 33 years ago.

Walter, who won one of the first caddy championships ever staged in Canada, vehemently agrees "it's been a good career—none other like it."

But there could have been because Gravlin was regarded as one of the slickest shortstops ever produced on the local sandlots. He played pro baseball briefly in the U.S. and was one of the standouts with such old-time teams as the Foundation and Beacon Hill clubs.

It's been a long "month." But Walter, if given the chance to start again, wouldn't want it any other way.

Ocean Falls Club Claims 26 Marks

OCEAN FALLS (C.P.) Led their Swimming Association at the weekend. Among seven records being claimed by Gilchrist are the Canadian records following 200 and 220-yard freestyle for three days of swim time trials held here under sanction of the British Columbia Amateur Swimming Association.

New Golf Captain

Gorge Vale ladies' division has honored a retiring captain and elected a new one.

Members presented Mrs. W. Woods with a gold pin, hailed Mrs. C. Holland as new captain.

Other officers: Mrs. D. Noy-Smith, vice-captain; Mrs. E. F. MacMillan, secretary; Mrs. V. G. Scott, treasurer; and Miss M. Crawford, Mrs. A. DeGiro-lamo, Miss I. Fletcher, Miss E. Jones and Mrs. C. Smith, committee members.

Contrary to an advertisement, Pontiac Chiefs' hockey club will practice at the Esquimalt Arena tonight from 9 to 10 p.m.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED . . .

Styles in basketball ensembles have changed considerably since these young ladies were tossing baskets for First Presbyterian Church team. Picture is part of collection that will be on display at First United Fellowship Hall Wednesday when

Naval Vets Break Loose; Vicettes Reach Island Final

The Pied Piper was unstopped in his day and Louise Peyer seems just as hard to slow down on a basketball court.

She scored 19 points Monday—the same as the entire Victoria College team—as Vicettes swept to a smashing 49-19 victory and the city junior women's championship at Mount View gym. Vicettes took the total-points series 92-54.

Six feet tall in her scampers, Louise personally effected College's combined effort—nine points—in the first half and repeated the process (with 10 points) in the second half.

Vicettes now play Nainaimo for the Island title. The two-game total-points series starts this weekend in Nainaimo.

Naval Vets, free-wheeling all the way, brushed aside Esquimalt Bakery 58-31 in the first of their total points series for the city Senior B women's crown.

Mary Pearson hit for 19 to lead Vets. In seven previous meetings, Vets' total winning margin over the Bakers was 12 points.

Lineups:

Vicettes (49)—Peyer 19, Crook 8, Stagg 2, Adcock, Thomas 14, Streeton, Burley 2, Bird 2, Frost, Gardiner 2.

Naval Vets (58)—Archibald 8, Campbell 10, Pearson 19, Moody 16, Crook, Mason 5, Pearce, Donaldson 2, A. Mur-rill, J. Murray.

SHAMROCK PRESIDENT FIRES BACK

Nanaimo Executives Have Short Memories

By ERNIE FEDORUK

The absent-minded professor's memory, Victoria's George McWilliams says, is a wonderful thing only if you compare it with the thinking ability of the Nainaimo Lacrosse Club executive.

McWilliams, Victoria Shamrocks' president, was disturbed some weeks ago when the Nainaimo executive, through the medium of a Nainaimo paper, criticized player-hunting actions by the Victoria team.

Disturbed but unruffled.

NOW'S HIS CHANCE

McWilliams took his time before launching a counter-attack. That came last week, and now he takes the offensive in a war of words.

Original criticism, it might be recalled, came from Nainaimo when that Inter-City Lacrosse League team learned Shamrocks were attempting to lure fiery Don Ashbee away from the Hub City for this season.

Nainaimo's cries of "foul" were just as great, if not greater, when the team learned Victoria had written a New Westminster junior in an attempt to secure his services.

Proving memory is a fleeting thing, sometimes, read this report published Wednesday after a meeting of the Nainaimo executive:

"Letters were mailed to 18 junior and senior mainland players, asking if they were interested in playing for Nainaimo."

GEORGE'S TURN

"This," said the Shamrock president, sharpening his barbs, "is the very thing they criticized the Victoria team for doing."

McWilliams, turning to other business, says the 'Rocks still haven't given up on the thought of landing Ashbee. It's almost certain, it was learned from another source, that he will not play for Nainaimo this season.

THE FAST FACEOFF: Two ex-Shamrocks, Nip O'Hearne and Bob Dobbie, are helping Victoria in scouting for eastern players. Former Victoria player Jack Wilson, now attending Denver University, is on the "free list" because he

An Opposition MLA asked Mr. Price if he considered the girls at Willington were "not worth a pickel."

"When they're in there, they're not," he replied.

"As long as you have had girls you'll always find older boys that will make them worse."

"The conditions existing at the school are the responsibility of professional social workers."

He said it wasn't the government's fault.

GOING TO OAKALLA

But girls from Willington were finding their way into Oakalla jail.

"This is a disgrace and a shame," he said.

"Who's responsible? The professional social workers?"

The reason said Mr. Price, was the "permissive system" at the school.

"It just does not work. It has failed entirely. I know there's a better way of handling these young people."

"What would you do about it?" asked Dave Barrett (NDP-CCF-DeWdney).

"The school should be under the department of education," said Mr. Price. "In charge of very carefully selected teachers it could put on a program that does away with permissiveness."

After the premier's rebuke, Mr. Price added that with better training, the girls could become better citizens.

"That's what I'm getting at."

Mr. Black's statement also said:

"I do not share his opinion relative to professional social workers and am definite in my statement that every girl who enters the institution is a potential good citizen."

'HELLZAPOPPIN'

Deaths Ends Long Run Of Zany Duo

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Harold (Chick) Johnson, 65, younger member of the daffy and durable comedy team of Olsen and Johnson, died at a Las Vegas hospital Monday night of a kidney disease.

His death ended a partnership that had produced noise and laughter in about equal quantities for nearly a half century—in vaudeville, on the New York stage and in the movies.

Johnson was born in Chicago and was appearing there as a pianist in the First World War era when he met Olsen, then a student at Northwestern University.

CLICK QUICKLY

They teamed up at a local vaudeville house just for laughs—and got plenty of them. They were an overnight success.

They were together in such stage successes as Hellzapoppin and Laughing Room Only. Later they found another vehicle for their boisterous humor—the movies.

The Olsen and Johnson brand of comedy was about as subtle as atomic warfare. A New York review of their 1949 show, of comedy was about as subtle as atomic warfare.

Funsappoppin, shows their inventory of supporting players and props included:

A chorus of 30; an orchestra of 25; a dozen midgits, 53 revolvers, 75 dead ducks, a live goose; a live rat, a live pig, two live rabbits and an airplane.

Hellzapoppin played on Broadway for more than 1,400 performances beginning in 1938. They used the same title for one of their films. They made about 10 movies.

BATTLE FOR BORDER ENDS

IRA Told to Dump Arms

DUBLIN—The threat of hit-and-run attacks on the Irish border apparently has been lifted with an announcement by the Irish Republican Army that it is abandoning its terrorist war to unite the island.

The IRA said in a statement Monday night that all of its fighters, estimated at about 5,000, have been ordered to end their harassment of the Northern Ireland border and throw away their arms.

Both sides of the border welcomed the announcement. But Northern Ireland's government said it will keep its guard up.

The 1,000-word statement, handed to newspaper offices here by strangers, said IRA members have called a halt to five years of bombing and shooting attacks because of public opposition.

The statement added, however, that "the movement remains intact and is in a position to continue its campaign in the occupied areas (Northern Ireland) indefinitely."

The IRA blamed its lack of public support on apathy and government muzzling of the press. The minds of the general public "have been deliberately distracted from the supreme issue—the unity and freedom of Ireland," it said.

The IRA statement said that during the five-year campaign more than 600 operations were carried out. Casualties included six killed and 28 wounded, it said.

Two IRA men were killed in action and seven died accidentally during the same period. Forty-three IRA men are serving jail terms in Belfast, Northern Ireland; 42 in Dublin, and three in England, it said.

HERE AND THERE

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

There is something seductive about the new Courthouse on Cathedral Hill.

The old fortress, down near the waterfront, was grim and austere—like Justice herself. The benches were hard and the bare brown walls seemed to say, "Don't come here unless you must!"

The new courtrooms, with their soft fluorescent lighting, padded seats and richly-colored carpets, have an almost theatrical appeal.

The judge sits under a stately canopy, and from it issues a V-shaped light—not on the judge but on the wall behind him (a sinister effect). And the witness, covered up to his neck in a deep wooden box, looks as if he were having a steam bath—or something worse.

These luxurious courtrooms have no windows on the outside world, but simulated daylight comes down from the ceiling, and the air-conditioning plant whispers a kind of lullaby as the misdeeds of mankind are deliberated by judge and counsel.

The setting seems wrong—but I guess we'll get used to it in time.

In these wide, free, open spaces of British Columbia, it's amazing how many things we are restricted from doing!

The proprietor of a Victoria beer parlor tried introducing fine pewter tankards and fancy China mugs as an artistic change from the plain near-half-pint glass.

The customers loved them—but, of course, the B.C. Liquor Control Board couldn't stretch its spaghetti-like imagination that far.

"You must serve beer only in plain glasses," said the LCB.

Mrs. E. Colley, 126 Dallas, was much interested in our story of 95-year-old Hamilton Smith, Victoria's oldest native son.

In her attic she discovered a souvenir of his father, Moses Smith—a calendar of the old firm of Moses Smith and Company which supplied biscuits and hardtack to Her Majesty's Royal Navy at Esquimalt in the 1890s.

Wild Easter lilies are already sprouting in the garden of Jack Kennedy at 182 Obed—but Mr. Kennedy has a secret. He grows them in a particularly secluded corner of his garden where the winter winds do not penetrate.

"I've done this for years," he says.

Infant Survives Poisonous Liniment Drink

A year-old Esquimalt boy was rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital by police today after swallowing some poisonous liniment.

Walter Corbett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Corbett, 1028 Craigflower Road, was admitted to the hospital for observation and is reported comfortable.

Hospital authorities said the boy had consumed about a half an ounce of methyl salicylate-oil of winter green.

The boy's father, stationed at HMCS Naden, said he did not know how Walter got the liniment.

"It was supposed to be locked up in a suitcase in the bedroom," he said.

Theft Suspect Arrested Again On Eve of Trial

One of three men due to appear in city police court today for the start of a preliminary hearing in connection with the burglary of the Don Mee Co., 538 Fisgard, was arrested again during the night on a similar charge.

Leonard G. Bell, 24, of Glen Lake, was free on $2,000 bail to appear in court today for the hearing. Charged with him in the theft of about $12,000 from the Chinatown restaurant on Jan. 15 are Marian Miller, 34, and Francis Chan, both of Vancouver.

Bell was arrested Monday night following report of the theft of more than $500 worth of valuables and cash from the premises of G. B. Simon Ltd., jewelers, of 1306 Government Street.

FEW BLOCKS AWAY

He was charged with breaking and entering and theft at the jewellery store—just a few blocks from the Don Mee Co.—in city police court today.

His lawyer Jack Gatehouse asked Magistrate William Oslender for a one-day remand to consider his election for trial.

Shortly afterwards Bell appeared in the dock again with Miller and Chan for the start of the preliminary hearing.

BROTHER TESTIFIES

First witnesses were William Bell, younger brother of Leonard Bell, and Bertrand Large. Both men live at 3005 Glen Lake Road.

Mr. Large said that the elder Bell was at their cabin in the early part of January "before all this happened," and the other two accused came to see him once but he didn't know who they were.

Small-Scale Fair Booth Considered

City council today reconsidered that it will contribute up to $10,970 for a publicity booth at the Seattle fair but no more.

The money can be used either for a Vancouver Island booth—estimated to cost $36,000—or a co-operative venture with the Seattle Chamber of Commerce which would cost much less.

Mayor R. B. Wilson and publicity bureau president A. I. Curtis will attend an emergency meeting in Nanaimo Wednesday night to see if a gap of $15,000 for the booth can be filled.

If not, the city's contribution will go towards rent and providing a two-girl staff at the Seattle Chamber of Commerce's visitors' information booth at the terminal of the monorail system linking the downtown area to the fair grounds.

Cost of the alternative, tentatively arranged by publicity commissioner William Hawkins on a flying visit to Seattle this morning, would be less than $10,000 to the city.

TAX PLAN REJECTED

A suggestion that the city's business tax be raised by 1/4 or 1/2 per cent to cover the $15,000 shortage for operating a booth within the fairgrounds was rejected.

Ald. Curtis said the business community needed more education on the ways in which it benefits from the tourist trade before such an increase could be accepted.

Mayor R. B. Wilson said council would not be willing to increase its offered $10,970 contribution because it would impose too heavy a burden on city ratepayers.

Council left decision on which plan would be followed to the publicity bureau, reiterating only that it would be willing to vote the previously approved sum to either scheme.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Sheila M. Wallace, 2709 Roseberry, $35 for careless driving.

Thomas A. Mitchell, 1653 Burton, $35 for careless driving.

HAPPY ENDING to frightening story is told in the two pictures above. Top shows Jim Scoones, Campbell River logger, inspecting nine-foot boat which carried his two small sons through treacherous waters when they went adrift for 20 hours overnight Sunday in what could have been a tragedy. They were spotted from the air and rescued Monday morning none the worse for their experience—Douglas, eight, at left in bottom photo, and brother Jamie, nine. The boys left home Sunday to play at a nearby park, changed their minds en route, and "borrowed" boat from waterfront float. They drifted 20 miles before being spotted. (Agnes Flett photos.)

Home Delivery Soon For Milk in Cartons

First home delivery of milk in waxed cardboard cartons here is expected to be made about the middle of March by Island Farms Dairies Co-Op Association, general manager Thomas Lindsay announced today.

While all Victoria dairies sell carton products through retail stores, home deliveries have been continued in glass bottles. Cartons for home delivery are in use in several Canadian cities and in many U.S. centres.

Mr. Lindsay said that Island Farms, which delivers throughout Greater Victoria, has been using cartons for about five years and now does a 50-50 business in bottles and cartons.

GROWING TREND

"We decided we would have to go one way or the other," he said, "and it seemed to us that the growing trend was to cartons."

Mr. Lindsay said that while carton packaging was a little more expensive, he believed there would be considerable saving to offset the added expense.

At the present time, Mr. Lindsay said, milkmen are wheeling six or seven tons of glass through the streets, they have to collect empties and then the bottles must be handled and put through washing equipment at the plant. He believed the cartons would cut from one to two hours off delivery time.

Other dairy firms aren't so sure about the economies of cartons for home delivery and the manager of one plant figured they would add one cent a quart to cost of operations.

"The margin of profit in this business just isn't high enough to absorb that extra cost," he said.

Other firms said they were not contemplating changing over entirely to cartons at this time.

'We Can Shake Outside Areas'

Go-It-Alone Policy Suggested on Buses

The outside municipalities which turned down an amalgamation study may find the gesture cost them $500,000 a year in transit deficits, a city alderman warned today.

City Seeks Licence Fee From Clubs

A legislative committee was told today the City of Victoria wants to charge a licence fee of up to $100 to private clubs which serve liquor to their members.

This is one of five requests before the special committee on private bills for amendments to Victoria's Act of Incorporation.

The other requests are:

To license carnivals up to $100 a day;

To license vending machines for a maximum of $50 every six months;

To license commercial vehicles picking up or delivering goods in the city for $20 every six months;

For permission to set up by-laws and regulations for Thetis Lake Park.

City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady told the committee that about 15 private clubs would be affected by the licensing provisions.

The committee did not make any decision today on whether or not to recommend that the legislature pass the Victoria amendments.

It will hear a delegation of vending machine operators at another meeting first.

Four Injured In Head-On Sooke Crash

A head-on two-car collision outside the Sooke RCMP office on Sooke Road Monday evening sent four people to hospital—three of them from one family.

The four were Valton Regan, Townsend Road, Sooke; his wife Gwen; their daughter Ann, 12, and the daughter of some friends whose mother has not yet been notified.

All were in a car driven by Mr. Regan which had been travelling east on Sooke Road and was preparing to turn left. Sooke RCMP said the second car was driven by Gerhart Hansen, of Sooke. He was unhurt.

The injured were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital by Sooke ambulance.

CONCUSSION

Ann was admitted with slight concussion and abrasions and is reported in good condition today. The others were treated for cuts and bruises and released.

James B. Severn, 1784 Lansdowne, was treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital for face cuts and released following a two-car collision on the Trans-Canada Highway at Helmcken at 5.15 p.m. on Monday.

Colwood RCMP said the second car involved was driven by David Blake, 4530 West Saanich Road. He escaped injury.

Earlier in the afternoon four-year-old Gary Rhodes, 2003 Cameron, was treated at the same hospital for a cut lip after being in collision with a car heading west on Pembroke.

City police said the child apparently ran out in front of a parked car. Driver of the moving car was a juvenile.

Decision on issuing the writ will come from the cabinet.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow told public works committee that the city should retaliate by cold-shouldering the outside municipalities when the B.C. Electric transit system is dumped on to the civic governments.

He said the city should follow a tit for tat policy when the current bus franchises expire and the municipalities are forced to take over the service, according to government indications.

MONEY-MAKERS

Ald. Edgelow pointed out all the money-making routes are within the city.

All the money-losing routes—to the tune of more than $500,000 a year according to B.C. Electric figures—are located in the three outside municipalities.

The outside reeves convinced the city to set up a special joint transportation sub-committee to deal with the bus problem on a joint basis—thus spreading out the loss among all four.

But Ald. Edgelow said the municipalities refused to enter a joint study of amalgamation and the city should counter by refusing to enter a joint transit system.

'SHAKE THEM'

"I think we should really shake the outside areas if and when the time comes when we all have to take over the buses."

"Victoria could quite easily say to them we will operate our own service in the city and you bear your own losses."

Ald. Edgelow said even if eventually an amalgamation study is launched, the transit picture should be included "so that everyone learns how much the city is paying" in subsidizing losing bus operations for the outside areas.

Eight Cougars Shot By Island Marksman

By JOHN BASSETT

Cougars are more plentiful than ever on Vancouver Island, says marksman Jim Dewar of Extension, near Nanaimo.

Dewar, who spends much of his time tracking them in the bush, should know—it's his job to kill them.

An employee of the predatory branch, B.C. game department, he works with a trusty 30-30 and four dogs. Ostensibly he deals with complaints received by the branch regarding the cats, but in fact, it is his task to keep the local cougar population to a reasonable number.

If a recent trip to Cameron Lake is any indication, he's despatching his duties with a large measure of success.

In a three-day period Dewar shot eight cougars.

"They do the tracking and I do the shooting," he says.

"If you have a general idea where to look initially the dogs will scare 'em out."

A new member of his dog clan—Joe, a Blue Tick from Tucson, Arizona, valued at $400—has already mastered the game, playing a large part in the recent Cameron Lake excursion.

"Maybe when the summer rolls around I'll get another dog and train him as well," Dewar said, "a man can always use five dogs tracking cougars."

HENRY C. HALL
... retired in 1959

Former City Magistrate Dies at 78

Former police court magistrate, Henry C. Hall, died in his sleep today at the age of 78.

Mr. Hall retired in 1959 after 22 years as magistrate. He was a former member of the Legislative Assembly, being elected a Liberal member for Victoria in 1917.

Born in Detroit, he came to B.C. from Ontario in 1900 and was admitted to the bar in 1906. He started practice in Nelson before moving to Victoria in 1912.

MLA FOUR YEARS

Mr. Hall was a Liberal member for four years, during which time he was instrumental in helping put through a number of important pieces of legislation.

Among these were the development of the industrial reserve, the Johnson Street bridge, social legislation that included mothers' pensions, the minimum wage act and equal guardianship of children and the establishment of Victoria College.

He was appointed magistrate in August of 1936, replacing Magistrate George Jay, who retired on his 75th birthday.

He is survived by two daughters in Vancouver and a son, Fernau. A second son, Frank, was killed during the Second World War while serving with the Seaforth Highlanders in Sicily.

Funeral arrangements will be made by McCall Brothers.

BYELECTION MUST BE HELD BY SEPT. 30

A provincial byelection to fill the vacant seat of Revelstoke must be held before the end of September this year.

The seat became vacant with the death of George Hobbs, NDP-CCF member, on Jan. 30.

First step in official by-election machinery was taken next day when Opposition Leader Robert Strachan notified the Speaker of the vacancy.

The Speaker in turn notified Deputy Provincial Secretary L. J. Wallace.

A byelection writ must be issued within six months of that date.

That would be July 31 at the latest.

Once the writ is issued the election must be held within 60 days. That takes the latest possible voting day to Sept. 30.

Decision on issuing the writ will come from the cabinet.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

Charming American Woman Has Formula for Retiring

"I'm a vagrant," this attractive woman told me as she sat relaxed in the bright sunshine of the Emery Hotel conservatory. "I'm without occupation and I have no fixed address."

"My last post was Athens. I've been travelling since I retired last September and as I go I've been looking for a place to strike roots."

Mrs. C. A. (Kathleen) Taylor, until recently United States consul in Greece, said all this with a look of satisfaction in her eyes.

She believes it will take her about a year to adjust to her new status of being able to do things as and when she likes. Not that she expects to go on drifting from place to place forever.

"But I'm not going to push it. I'm going to live from day to day. One morning I will wake up and I'll again be ready. What I'll be ready for I'm not quite sure at the moment. Some sort of voluntary work, I suppose."

"One thing I do know, I'll never again work to a tight program of hours and days. I've done that for 35 years. I've kept to schedule, accounted for time. Now I want to account to myself for awhile."

Kathleen Taylor started with the American state department, foreign service branch, in the clerical department. She became a foreign officer in 1945, then a vice-consul and finally a consul. Her postings have taken her to Mexico, England, Spain, Cuba, Italy, Washington, D.C., Austria, Germany and Greece.

Forbes

Has Helped Thousands; Made Many Friends

During her foreign service work she has met thousands of people and helped many to straighten out their difficulties either as foreigners abroad or people trying to enter the United States. She has met and made friends with top-ranking women in the countries she has served and has a great admiration for them.

"They are phenomenal," she says, "so clever, so poised and they get so much done for their people. They have to be tops to hold their places in their various countries, but no matter how hard they fight for the things they deem right, they never lose their femininity."

Mrs. Taylor came to Victoria to visit a "very dear friend," Miss Pat L'Amie, whom she met when both were stationed in Mexico.

From here she "thinks" she will return to New England "for a second look" and with a thought of "striking roots there."

She smiled when she told me this and asked: "Have you ever noticed when you shop around that very often the first thing you see you go back and buy? Well, that's the way it is with New England. I saw it first after I retired and somehow I think that is where I will live."

She did concede, however, that if Vancouver Island was "south of the border" it might make a difference.

And she told me that while she does want to make her home in her own country, she likes Canadians "very much."

"They were so cooperative at all my postings and so well trained. We knew they had received splendid preparation for their work in foreign service."

Dancers Honored on Mainland

Miss Wynne Shaw has returned from Vancouver where she was a guest at a reception given by the Vancouver Ballet Society's Workshop Theatre for the Northwest Regional Ballet Group which is composed of dancers from Seattle, Bellingham and Tacoma. Special guests included the Consul-General of the United States. Miss Shaw had auditioned dancers for the fete group last October. She prolonged her stay on the mainland to see the University of British Columbia's "Once Upon a Mattress."

Miss Mary Spillsbury, a former pupil of Miss Shaw, danced the prologue ballet and also danced in the group features of the musical. Prior to her latest performance, Miss Spillsbury had done the choreography and performed in Shakespeare's "Winter Tale," also produced by the university. She is now in rehearsal for the Vancouver production of "Rigoletto." On Monday, Miss Shaw was asked to audition dancers for "Aida," to be put on by the Seattle Symphony Orchestra in the new Seattle Centre Opera House as part of Century 21 celebrations.

Storing Sweaters Simple With These Plastic Bags

By PENNY SAVER

Right now it looks like spring is on its way. At least it does if we measure the season by the hours of sunshine per day. So, the time has come to begin getting out your spring and summer clothes and to think about storing winter ones.

When you get to the problem of storing sweaters, the sweater storage bags I've seen will do the trick, with a minimum of effort and fuss.

Either wash your sweaters or have them dry cleaned, then place them in these transparent polyethylene bags. They'll be fresh as the change of season when you are ready to use them again. Six re-usable bags, 12 inches by 18 inches sell for 49 cents.

There are many other storage uses for them, too—bathing suits, books, silverware, clothes dampening bag or anything else that might come to mind.

Ever get discouraged when cleaning Venetian blinds? You get the slats shining clean, but those tapes! I know exactly how you feel, so I was as happy as you'll be when I saw the cloth tape that is available now to cover soiled tapes on blinds.

Tape comes in various widths and colors: three inches by 100 feet, $1; one-and-a-half inches by 100 feet, 50 cents; two inch tape 75 cents and three-quarter inch, 25 cents.

Colors are yellow, grey, pink, beige, red, white, brown, also shades of green and maroon. Use the tape on blinds to match your color scheme.

There're other uses for the tape too, that include mending luggage or repairing shower curtains, plastic table clothes or plastic window curtains.

CAC Needs Members to Help Work

"We are big business," Mrs. A. B. Young told members of the Victoria Branch of the Consumers' Association of Canada at an annual meeting in the Public Library music room Monday afternoon. "But we need more members. If we had one million women across Canada our voice would be listened to and our wishes accepted. It is up to us to get those members."

In her report as retiring president, Mrs. Young pointed out that nearly 22 billion dollars was spent on consumer goods in Canada last year. Canada produced consumer goods to an amount of 18 billion dollars.

"When there is a choice and we find quality as good, and price the same, we should buy Canadian goods," she said. "Read the labels, compare prices and do your part," she urged.

Now that the British have entered the European Common Market, she said, it is more important still that the Canadian consumer be well informed as to Canada's consumer goods.

"We can help by giving information especially to young people who need knowledge of how and what to buy."

REPORTS
Treasurer Mrs. H. Norbury announced receipts for the year as $219.57 and disbursements of $129.29. Membership chairman Mrs. J. Jones announced a total branch membership of 410. Other reports were given by Mrs. P. R. A. Coombs, program; Mrs. D. R. McLeod, consumer problems; Mrs. J. Brown, liaison; Mrs. H. Todd, Local Council; Mrs. W. Rolls, publicity.

Ganges United Church Setting for Wedding

White-stocks and daffodils created a setting in Ganges United Church for the recent marriage of Barbara Fay Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathon Bennett, Salt Spring Island, and Herbert Daniel Brackett, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Brackett, Pender Island. Dr. Norah Hughes officiated.

Mrs. J. A. Tomlinson was organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white gown of embroidered net over tulle. The bateau neckline and lily point sleeves were trimmed with seed pearls and sequins.

Her chapel veil misted from a coronet of pearls and she carried a crescent bouquet of yellow roses and white feathered carnations.

Mrs. J. Mollison, matron of honor, wore a forest-green and brown patterned chiffon over nylon taffeta dress. Bridesmatron Mrs. R. Rylands and bridesmaid, Miss Lois Ley, were in identical gowns of mint green taffeta and lace. All attendants wore white whimsie pillbox hats and carried bouquets of daffodils.

H. Brackett, brother of the groom, was best man, and ushering guests to their pews were R. Rylands and J. Mollison.

A reception was held in Mahon Hall at Ganges following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a hand-made lace cloth, centred with a three-tier cake flanked by mimosa, iris, maidenhair fern and yellow candles.

A. Stevens, Beaver Point, proposed a toast to the bride. For their honeymoon on Vancouver Island Mrs. Brackett travelled in an imported flecked wool suit in spring green with brown hat and tangerine accessories. Her corsage of roses was in tone.

The young couple will make their home at St. Mary Lake, Salt Spring Island.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Be Twice as Hasty Now!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You are the only one I can turn to for help with this problem, so please don't let me down.

My boy friend (I'll call him Pete) and I went to my parents and asked for their permission to marry. They said absolutely not because Pete had nothing saved and only a summer job. We couldn't wait, so we ran away and got married. We have been married nine weeks, and now I realize I made a bad mistake. Pete is mean to me. He runs around and says it's none of my business what he does. He is not the boy I thought he was. Please, please, help me out of this mess before I do something to myself. Pete is 20 and I am 17.

DEAR DESPERATE: Tell your parents the whole story immediately. They are the only ones who love you enough to help you.

DEAR ABBY: Your letter from the girl who was ridiculed and called a "religious fanatic" because she refused to take showers naked in gym with other girls, has my sympathy. I am glad you stood up for her, Abby. I wish someone had stood up for me 17 years ago when I had the same problem. When I was 15, I was much more matured than most of my classmates. I was terribly self-conscious about it and refused to get into the showers naked unless the gym teacher got in, too. She wouldn't do it, so I wouldn't. I flunked gym. I could not graduate because I had no gym credit. But if I had it to do over again, I wouldn't do any different.

MODEST

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Would You Like to Trade Places With Your Hubby?

We may have firm convictions about how we would act and what we would do if we were in another person's shoes, but I doubt that we ever really know until the same thing happens to us. In fact, we might get some pretty big surprises!

I often have thought that many marital problems would disappear and that much understanding would appear if the husband and wife could exchange places for a week once a year. If it were possible for her to go to work and take care of his responsibilities and pressures there, and for him to stay at home and take care of the children and the house and the cooking, it would be most productive of mutual respect and sympathy.

An amusing but thought-provoking letter I have just received stimulated this column. The woman writes, "I am a little weary of the cockeyed psychological advice which suggests that breadwinner is a delicate deity, requiring wall-to-wall reverence lest he drop dead from the strain of making a living."

"It is almost impossible to leaf through a magazine today without bumping into an essay directing wives to pamper, coddle, flatter, serve and adore their husbands."

"There is a gloomy theory that charges that wives are pushing their husbands into early graves. It is thought to be selfish if a woman expects her husband to pitch more than wool at home, and she is terrible if she ever expects him to stay at home once in a while to watch the children all by himself so that she can have an occasional evening away from them and with the girls."

"This view may cause men to become neurotic and self-pitying and often blinds them to the burdens of others, their wives!"

I do think that many young husbands fail to realize that their wives need some recreation, and some time away from the children. There is not much variety in household duties and childish prattle does not provide all the conversation a woman needs. No matter how much a mother loves her children, she should have some time away from them spent in adult companionship.

On the other hand, I am sure many women are completely unaware of the pressure of a man's work, of his responsibility to provide for his family, and therefore call on him for too much help at home and expect him to enter into too much social life.

No doubt after exchanging jobs for a week, both the husband and wife would be crying to have their old roles back!

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and the boy I like is 19. When my mother met him, she took a dislike to him right away because she said he didn't "look like" my religion. I don't look like my religion, and neither does my brother, but that doesn't seem to make any impression on my mother. My boy friend told me he was of my religion and I believe him. I don't want to insult him by asking him to prove it. Please tell me how to get my mother to believe me, and let me go out with him.

NOT BELIEVED
DEAR NOT: If he is telling the truth, he should have no objections to telling you his clergyman's name. That would be easy to check and would not be an insult.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "STRETCH PANTS": I think you are stretching things too far. If your husband objects, wear a skirt.

TWO TIPS ON KEEPING BACK KICK PLEAT FLAT

"Dear Mrs. Farmer: Would you please tell me how to make the back kick pleat on a skirt lie flat at the hem line and not turn out when one wears the garment?"

Mrs. H. C.

Dear Mrs. H. C.: I would like to give you several tips on this. First, be sure and add the additional width of fabric for the pleat all the way from hem to waistline. If your fabric is very heavy, you may cut away one layer of this excess fabric. Your pleat is bound to hang even and you also can avoid machine-stitching the top of the pleat on the right side of your garment.

Second, close the pleat with the basting or longest machine-stitch possible, then press pleat before removing this basting. Again, you will find more accuracy than trying to guess where the pleat should fold.

The last step is to machine-stitch the fold of the pleat together at the hem of your skirt. The stitching should be about 1/4 inch from the fold and will keep the pleat from spreading. This step also can be used to help keep pleats in shape on a pleated skirt.

Stock 'Killing' Denied by A-G

Opposition charges that an oil company made stock killings off the crude oil pipeline to the west coast were refuted Monday in the legislature by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

'Take Over Pipeline To Clear Air'

The B.C. government should remove Frank McMahon's new pipeline from under a cloud of suspicion by taking it over, Atlin MLA Frank Calder said Monday.

Speaking in the legislature, the NDP-CCF member referred to Western Pacific Products and Crude Oil Pipeline Ltd., on which the opposition earlier charged Mr. McMahon realized an $11,000,000 profit by stock manipulation.

The line runs from Taylor, outside Fort St. John, to Kamloops.

"It has been revealed on the floor of the House that all is not too bright in the affairs of one pipeline," he said. "This government has not yet been able to reply satisfactorily to the charges."

He pointed out that Attorney-General Robert Bonner, who spoke just before him, had attempted further explanation, but Mr. Calder concluded "suspicion still rests on this pipeline."

"In order to clear the air of suspicion and in order to prevent super-promotional activities which accrue huge monopoly profits, this government, in the public interest, should immediately give consideration to placing these private natural gas utilities under public ownership," Mr. Calder said.

He wished him a long and happy retirement.

Esquimalt prosecutor John G. McIntosh added his tribute. "No one ever failed to get a break in the chief's court when it was necessary," he said.

Orthodox Douk Killed In Fire

GRAND FORKS (CP)—William J. Wishloff, about 67, died Monday after he ran back into his burning house to save his possessions.

Firemen found the body after the home was destroyed. They said Wishloff, believed to be an Orthodox Doukholder, ran out when fire broke out in his large brick and timber home, then slipped back in unnoticed.

Police said cause of the fire has not been determined but arson is not suspected.

HOUSE TRIBUTE TO PEARKES ON BIRTHDAY

The legislature Monday paid tribute to Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes on his 74th birthday.

Premier Bennett rose at the opening of Monday's sitting. "We are indeed fortunate in the lieutenant-governor we have in this province," he said.

Arthur Turner, acting as opposition leader, added his congratulations.

"He said that he had also visited minister without portfolio Mrs. Buda Brown in hospital over the weekend."

"She is awaiting a spine operation this week."

"She is looking forward to having some relief when she has the operation," he said.

Ostler Pays Warm Tribute To Stancombe

Police Chief Gilbert Stancombe made his last official appearance in Esquimalt police court Monday when Magistrate William Ostler paid him a tribute.

Chief Stancombe is retiring Wednesday after 29 years as a member of Esquimalt police department. He has headed the department for the past 17 years.

"I must express my appreciation to the chief for his long and devoted service to the municipality; to his efficiency, courtesy and unfailing kindness," said Magistrate Ostler.

He wished him a long and happy retirement.

Esquimalt prosecutor John G. McIntosh added his tribute. "No one ever failed to get a break in the chief's court when it was necessary," he said.

Chief Stancombe will be the first officer who has served in Esquimalt long enough to draw a pension.

He said he had no immediate plans—except a rest—and expressed the hope the people of Esquimalt will give as much co-operation to his successor as they have to him.

His successor is former Sergeant James Smart, who has been with the force for 19 years.

LIBERAL CHARGES

Mismanagement Loss $14 Billion

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Judy LaMarsh charged in the Commons Monday that government mismanagement has cost Canada $14,000,000,000 in lost production.

The MP for Niagara Falls was picked by Opposition Leader Pearson for the starting assignment in the session's first supply debate—a rare honor for the lady lawyer who entered Parliament in a byelection only 16 months ago.

Miss LaMarsh, 37, blamed the government for "Canada's wasted years" and then presented a non-confidence motion calling for policies to "ensure an adequate rate of growth in the Canadian economy."

"The lack of economic growth must be the key domestic issue of the next election," she declared in a 40-minute speech before heading west for a series of pre-election campaign appearances.

In reply, Trade Minister Hees said the economy "is again moving vigorously ahead." The record of prosperity and increasing employment "is simply killing the Liberal opposition."

ATTACKS LIBERALS

Mr. Hees accused the Liberals of "making all kinds of extravagant promises in an effort to regain power."

H. W. Herridge, House leader of the CCF—New Democratic Party group, called for Democratic planning of the economy—a kind of planning, he said, the Liberals wouldn't produce.

He backed a non-confidence motion onto the Liberal motion. It proposed economic growth "by the expansion of public and co-operative ownership" in the field of utilities, resource development and major enterprise directly affecting the whole country and also to eliminate "monopoly concentrations of power."

The Liberal and CCF-NDP motions of non-confidence came to a vote tonight at the close of the two-day supply debate—one of six such formal debates in the session.

In the supply debate Miss LaMarsh based her multi-billion-dollar estimate of lost production on a comparison of economic growth under Liberal and Progressive Conservative governments.

ALGERIA REBEL CHIEFS ACCEPT PEACE TERMS

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP)—The Algerian rebel parliament has accepted a peace agreement with France to end the 7½-year Algerian war, well-informed sources said today.

The sources said the National Council for Algerian Revolution, the rebel parliament, met here today to draft an announcement of its acceptance of the accord, worked out by French and rebel representatives in secret negotiations in Switzerland.

But the source said the announcement would not be made public until after the Algerian leaders leave Tripoli.

ALGIERS — Security forces were strengthened around Moslem quarters of Algiers today amid growing fears that Moslems may be provoked into a death-for-death blood-bath with European extremists.

Moslems have been guined down indiscriminately through out this city during the current wave of terror. Twenty-two persons were killed Monday and even more were wounded.

By mid-day today three Moslems had been killed in eight attacks in Algiers. The attacks were coupled with a new outbreak of holdups in Algiers and Oran that netted European gunmen arms and money.

The murders are believed to be a right-wing terrorist tactic aimed at sparking a major clash between Europeans and Moslems in an attempt to sabotage Algerian peace plans.

In Paris, official sources said today, Premier Michel Debre has ordered French military commanders in Algeria to disperse reserve forces to trouble spots in an effort to cut back the terrorist killings.

Debre was reported to have ordered commanders to deploy forces that had been held in readiness for an attempt by the Secret Army Organization to overthrow the government.

Authorities sent a battalion of infantry and three squadrons of mobile guardsmen—about 1,000 men—into the heart of Algiers Monday. With guns at the ready, soldiers lined the Rue Michelet, a street of shops and cafes where Europeans strolled despite shots and speeding ambulances.

On the national level, results gave the party 52 out of the 70 seats declared for the 494-seat Lok Sabha (lower house).

Congress candidates were also leading in many election districts, including the key one of North Bombay where Defence Minister V. K. Krishna Menon held a big 58,000 vote margin over his chief opponent, J. B. Kripalani.

On the state level, Nehru's party led with more than 1,000 seats out of the 1,500 declared for the 2,330 assembly seats at stake in 13 legislatures.

While the right-wing Swabha party—regarded by many Indians as a potential threat to the Congress party—made gains in three states, its national chairman, N. G. Ranga, lost his house seat to a Communist in Andhra Pradesh.

COMMUNISTS HOLDING
In both Andhra Pradesh and West Bengal, the Communists appeared to be holding their own despite a party split over Communist Chinese incursions on the Indian border.

Lottery Law Up to All 10 Provinces

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton said today in the Commons all provinces would have to be consulted on any amendment to the Criminal Code to make provincial lotteries possible.

He also said he was surprised that Premier Lesage of Quebec had disclosed Monday that Quebec was consulting with the federal government on the necessary amendments to the Criminal Code to make provincial lotteries possible.

He said in reply to Florent Dubois (PC—Richmond-Wolfe) that Mr. Lesage's letters to him on the subject were marked personal.

The minister said his department is considering the problems raised by the Quebec proposal.

'Joint Control' Still an Issue

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker today declined a direct reply to Paul Hellyer, Liberal defence critic, on whether there is a secret Canada-United States agreement for provision of American nuclear warheads to this country on outbreak of nuclear war.

Opposition Leader Pearson asked for comment on Washington reports quoting U.S. military sources as saying that nuclear warheads supplied to Canada after outbreak of war would be of no use.

The prime minister said he didn't intend to make observations in such an important matter on the statements of some anonymous individuals.

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker said flatly in the Commons Monday that if Canada is attacked by nuclear weapons, Canadian forces should not be denied the right to use nuclear weapons.

He said the government "hopes" to have nuclear weapons available for use by Canadian troops participating in a nuclear war breaks out.

But just how the Canadian government would realize that "hope" was not clear following the Prime Minister's replies to a series of questions asked by Opposition Leader L. B. Pearson in the House.

Mr. Diefenbaker's statements appear to indicate that the Canadian government has entered into some form of agreement with the United States providing for a very fast delivery of nuclear warheads for use on weapons in this country in the event of the outbreak of hostilities, or clear evidence that hostilities will break out within a matter of hours.

Top defence officials within the government firmly refused to comment Tuesday on the statements made by the prime minister. They said that the only person who could interpret what Mr. Diefenbaker meant by his statements was the prime minister himself.

Certainly it appeared from what the prime minister said that Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles in Canada and jet interceptors in this country will not be equipped with nuclear warheads while there is still a chance for peace.

But in the event of a sure sign that nuclear war is on its way to North America, including an attack on Canada, then Canadian forces presumably will be able to obtain fast delivery of nuclear warheads for the Bomarc bases. The Canadian interceptors, it is assumed, would be directed immediately to U.S. bases to be fitted with nuclear weapons.

Pearson to Ask Specific Facts

However while leaving the impression that some form of fast delivery system might be arranged with the U.S. defence forces the prime minister did not actually come out and say there was such an arrangement in the works. It is expected Liberal Leader Pearson will press again to ascertain if some such secret agreement has been made.

Meantime the reactions to Mr. Diefenbaker's statements from Washington do not seem to bear out the possibility of an arrangement for fast delivery being worked out with the U.S. Both American military and diplomatic sources were reported from Washington to be bitterly disappointed with the latest statements by the prime minister on Canada's nuclear warheads position.

Mr. Diefenbaker explained to the Commons Monday that his government's policy was that nuclear warheads will not be made available for Canada, unless Canada can secure joint control of the warheads with the U.S.

Under persistent questioning by Mr. Pearson the Prime Minister conceded that as the law of the U.S. now stands "joint control is impossible."

Centennial Flashback...

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

FEBRUARY 27

John Giles, a Cariboo miner better known as "Jack of Clubs," is believed to have been killed by a Hydah Indian while visiting his mistress, an Indian girl named Jenny, in a hut on the reservation. About 100 of Jack's friends, plus a posse of police, searched the reservation, and a young Indian was taken into custody. He said the miner had indeed been killed, but that another Indian did it.

The sad news reached Victoria via the sloop Rambler, from Port Townsend, that the schooner Tolo capsized near San Juan Island last Monday, and Capt. Maloney, four passengers and a seaman drowned.

Yesterday's snowfall, which preceded heavy rain, was measured at 1½ inches. A renewed cold spell today followed the rain.

WALL STREET CHIEF FACES TAX CHARGES

NEW YORK (AP)—J. Truman Bidwell, chairman of the board of governors of the New York Stock Exchange, was indicted today on charges of evading federal income taxes. He immediately announced his resignation.

A federal grand jury returned a two-count indictment against Bidwell, who has been a governor of the exchange since 1958 and board chairman since last May 15.

BELGRADE (AP)—At least 54 miners were killed today in a gas explosion in a coal mine in central Yugoslavia, Radio Belgrade reported.

The official news agency Tanjug said it was feared about 180 miners were trapped underground. It earlier had put the death toll at 28.

The explosion struck in the Tito Mine at Banovic, in the eastern region of Bosnia-Herzegovina province.

The radio said rescue workers have been unable to reach the level where the explosion took place, and the final death toll could not be established.

Rescue workers managed to save about 80 miners. Officials fear the number of dead may increase, Tanjug said.

POLICE DOGS ROUSE E. BERLINERS

BERLIN (Reuters)—The forcible evacuations of East Germans living near the West Berlin border continued today. At dawn East German police, with watchdogs woke the inhabitants of several houses near the British sector district of Staaken and took them away in trucks.

The evacuees were barely allowed time to collect a few personal belongings. West Berlin police said. Their furniture was taken away later.

SAIGON NORMAL AGAIN

Palace Bombers 'Acted on Own'

SAIGON (AP)—A bombing attack on president Ngo Dinh Diem's palace today was carried out by two South Vietnamese Air Force officers acting on their own, the government said tonight.

The planes swept in low just after dawn and attacked the palace with fire bombs, rockets and machine guns. One pilot was captured.

The attack left a wing of the palace a smoldering ruin, but the 61-year-old anti-Communist president escaped harm.

Six hours after the attack this capital resumed its normal outward appearance except for soldiers guarding street corners. There was no sign of a revolt to add to the difficulties of South Viet Nam, already fighting a war with Communist guerrillas.

Naval anti-aircraft guns just outside Saigon shot down one of the two U.S.-made fighters—members that blasted the palace. Its pilot, Lieut. Pham Quoc was captured alive, Civic Action Minister Ngo Trong Hieu announced.

OTHER CRASH LANDS

The pilot of the second plane was identified by the minister as Sub-Lt. Nguyen Van Cu. His plane, riddled with anti-aircraft fire, was reported to have crash landed at Phnom Penh airport in neighboring Cambodia. Cambodian authorities arrested the pilot.

NUCLEAR WEAPONS

members applauded Mr. Diefenbaker's declaration that Canadian troops should not be denied the right to use nuclear weapons. But when Mr. Pearson pressed the prime minister to say how the government would ensure that such weapons were in Canadian hands in the event of nuclear war there was an expectant hush in the House.

As members waited anxiously for the reply Mr. Speaker Roland Michener rose to his feet. Mr. Diefenbaker had not yet risen to answer and appeared to be mulling over Mr. Pearson's key question.

Mr. Speaker Michener intervened to declare that there had been a substantial exchange on the matter during the orders of the day question period. Mr. Pearson pointed out that it was "an important matter." Mr. Speaker Michener refused to allow the question to be put and that ended the exchange.

Mr. Speaker's intervention saved the prime minister from answering the question. Some MP's looked puzzled, members appeared relieved.

The nuclear questions were raised by Mr. Pearson because of newspaper reports of the prime minister's comments on the nuclear issue at Edmonton in a press conference last Saturday.

He made two main points then: (1) That his government does not intend to acquire nuclear warheads for Canadian weapons as long as the problem of disarmament is "being seriously considered."

(2) Should war come Canada will have weapons with nuclear capability. "Are we to arm Canadians with bows and arrows?" he asked.

It is assumed here that Russia could not mount a sudden surprise attack without North American intelligence being alerted in advance. On this basis there would be sufficient time for delivery of nuclear weapons to Canadian bases, by the Americans.

There would be no problem for Canadian forces now in Europe. There are storage dumps of nuclear warheads nearby and NATO would supply these Canadian forces with nuclear warheads in about one hour's time.

But in Canada the situation is different. In Edmonton the prime minister referred to delivery from the U.S. not from NATO supplies in Europe. He may have been hinting at a so far undisclosed arrangement with the United States' government to provide Canadian forces in Canada with nuclear warheads. No one here will say. All queries are referred to the prime minister.

Mr. Diefenbaker insisted in the House Monday that what he said at Edmonton was simply a repetition of what had been said on previous occasions.

One difficulty about a fast delivery system from the U.S. for Bomars to the Canadian bases at North Bay and La Macaza in Quebec is that it takes precious time to properly arm a Bomars missile with a nuclear warhead.

Mr. Diefenbaker said in the House Monday "We take the stand that in the interests of disarmament everything must be done to assure success if it can be obtained and that the nuclear family should not be increased so long as there is any possibility of disarmament among the nations of the world."

'ALL-OUT' FIGHT PLEDGED

NDP Nominates City Machinist

Harry Fanthorpe, 47, of 2934 Cedar Hill Road, will carry the New Democratic Party's flag in Victoria at the next federal election, expected this year.

He is proprietor of the Harbour Machine Shop, 31 Erie. He was nominated at a party convention in the Woodsworth Hall Monday night after Fred J. Bevis, the only other nominee, stood down because he could not enter an election as an employee of the federal government.

Said Mr. Bevis: "I allowed my name to stand for nomination, in all good faith, in the hope that I would be able to make some contribution to the success of our cause."

"Only this afternoon I learned that an employee of the federal government is a second-class citizen. Under the Federal Government Act it is quite clearly stated that no employee of the federal government can stand as candidate in a federal election."

David Reimer, president of the Victoria New Democratic Party Association, accepted Mr. Bevis' withdrawal with the remark: "Something should be done about this."

Mr. Bevis called on the meeting to support Mr. Fanthorpe "as a good solid supporter of Tommy Douglas," but ran into opposition from Bill Scott, the self-styled Lighthouse Philosopher.

"Supposing you ignored this ruling and ran for election?" he asked, "what could happen?"

Mr. Bevis replied that any federal employee who did so would be subject to "instant dismissal." He said he was employed in HMC Dockyard under the department of national defence.

Mr. Fanthorpe accepted the nomination by saying he would "go all out" to win a seat in Ottawa.

But first he suggested the meeting be reconvened so that other candidates could be nominated.

Mrs. Marney Stevenson and Neil Hindle moved acceptance of Mr. Fanthorpe as candidate and he was accepted with only one dissenter—Mr. Scott.

Mr. Fanthorpe said he was a machinist by trade and a politician by ambition. He said he was a member of the Victoria New Democratic Party Association and was a supporter of Tommy Douglas.

Park Lakes Planned By Oak Bay

Oak Bay council will be asked to approve a $74,132 plan to develop Uplands Park.

Members of the municipal works committee reviewed the plan Monday night.

The development is planned as a winter works project with a $13,500 senior government grant. This would mean a $61,102 cost to the municipality.

The plan includes the digging of three artificial lakes, each measuring 100 by 80 feet, which would have a re-circulating system and pump to keep the water aerated.

Also included would be the re-soiling and seeding of six acres of playing area.

Construction would start first on the laying of a network of culverts at a cost of about $25,000.

Decision Set On Rhodesia

LONDON (Reuters)—The British cabinet in a 2½-hour meeting today reached a final decision on the powder keg question of a constitution for Northern Rhodesia, usually reliable sources said.

The decision will be communicated to Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of the white-dominated Rhodesian Federation which includes the protectorate of Northern Rhodesia. It will be announced in the House of Commons Wednesday, the sources said.

It was widely assumed in parliamentary quarters that the constitutional proposals will allow for the possibility of a Negro majority in the Northern Rhodesian legislature.

VANCOUVER ISLAND ROUNDUP

Driver's 'Gross Contempt' Brings 30 Days in Prison

COURTENAY—A driver who has had 12 traffic convictions and two accidents was sentenced to 30 days in prison in police court here on Monday.

Victor E. Crisp pleaded guilty to two charges of driving while his license was suspended. He was sentenced to 309 days on each count, to be served concurrently.

Magistrate John Ryland said he regarded Crisp's behavior as gross contempt.

James Craig Jr., pleaded guilty to second offence of impaired driving and was sentenced to the minimum term of 14 days in jail. His licence was suspended for three months.

Magistrate Ryland pointed out a third offence bears a mandatory term of three months imprisonment.

COURTENAY—Closing hours and holidays for local merchants have been set for the entire year, including Christmas.

At a meeting of the retail committee of the Chamber of Commerce Monday, 34 retailers set business hours for the coming year and defeated a motion to change Wednesday closing to Mondays.

Stores will remain open Easter Monday, Jan. 2, and will observe Friday routine on Dec. 21 and the 22.

Safeway manager James Calnan asked that super markets be allowed to set their own operating hours and objected to the adopted schedule.

"Super markets are in a class of their own," he said. "I object to having hardware and dry-goods operators setting food store hours."

Safeway plans to have six-day shopping again this summer.

Premier Rebukes Burrard Socred

Social Credit MLA Bert Price was rebuked in the legislature by Premier Bennett Monday when he charged delinquent girls in Willingdon School were "not worth very much."

The government also dissociated itself from his remarks in a later statement issued by Welfare Minister, Wesley Black.

Mr. Price, Social Credit MLA for Vancouver Burrard, told the House:

"I don't consider anybody in that school worth very much. Their credit is very low."

"Oh, no, Mr. Member, a lot of them will be good citizens," said the premier.

Mr. Price explained he meant they were being handled the wrong way and shut up. He blamed professional social workers.

Later Mr. Black said Mr. Price's remarks were not the opinion of the government.

An Opposition MLA asked Mr. Price if he considered the girls at Willingdon were "not worth a nickel."

"When they're in there, they're not," he replied.

"As long as you have bad girls you'll always find older boys that will make them worse."

"The conditions existing at the school are the responsibility of professional social workers."

He said it wasn't the government's fault.

GOING TO OAKALLA

But girls from Willingdon were finding their way into Oakalla jail.

"This is a disgrace and a shame," he said.

"Who's responsible? The professional social workers?"

The reason said Mr. Price was the "permissive system" at the school.

"It just does not work. It has failed entirely. I know there's a better way of handling these young people."

"What would you do about it?" asked Dave Barrett (NDP-CCF-Dewdney).

"The school should be under the department of education," said Mr. Price. "In charge of very carefully selected teachers it could put on a program that does away with permissiveness."

After the premier's rebuke, Mr. Price added that with better training, the girls could become better citizens.

"That's what I'm getting at."

Mr. Black's statement also said:

"I do not share his opinion relative to professional social workers and am definite in my statement that every girl who enters the institution is a potential good citizen."

'HELLZAPOPPIN'

Deaths Ends Long Run Of Zanny Duo

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Harold (Chick) Johnson, 63, younger member of the daffy and durable comedy team of Olsen and Johnson, died at a Las Vegas hospital Monday night of a kidney disease.

His death ended a partnership that had produced noise and laughter in about equal quantities for nearly a half century—in vaudeville, on the New York stage and in the movies.

Johnson was born in Chicago and was appearing there as a pianist in the First World War era when he met Olsen, then a student at Northwestern University.

CLICK QUICKLY

They teamed up at a local vaudeville house just for laughs—and got plenty of them. They were an overnight success.

They were together in such stage successes as Hellzapoppin and Laughing Room Only. Later they found another vehicle for their boisterous humor—the movies.

The Olsen and Johnson brand of comedy was about as subtle as atomic warfare. A New York review of their 1949 show, of comedy was about as subtle as Funsapoppin, shows their inventory of supporting players and props included:

A chorus of 50, an orchestra of 25, a dozen midgets, 53 revolvers, 75 dead ducks, a live goose, a live rat, a live pig, two live rabbits and an airplane.

Hellzapoppin played on Broadway for more than 1,400 performances beginning in 1938. They used the same title for one of their films. They made about 10 movies.

Vancouver Singers At Cathedral

The Vancouver Cantata Singers will perform Rossini's "Messe Solenne" in Christ Church Cathedral, on Saturday at 8 p.m.

The group, which is well known on the mainland for its high standards and authenticity of its performances, will perform this work for the second time in three months, having given a successful performance in St. Andrew's-Wesley United Church in Vancouver last December.

FULL SCALE

Mature product of Rossini's later years, it is a full scale Mass for chorus and solo quartet, which in this performance will be Vancouver singers, Edith McLellan, Katherine Fear, Donald Brown and Thomas Wright, all of whom are regular members of the group.

An unusual scoring is for piano and harmonium, and pianist Robert Rogers will be joined by Rev. Graham Baker who will play the small organ in the Cathedral's west gallery, where the choir will be placed. Conducting will be the choir's founder and director, Hugh McLean.

BATTLE FOR BORDER ENDS

IRA Told to Dump Arms

DUBLIN — The threat of hit-and-run attacks on the Irish border apparently has been lifted with an announcement by the Irish Republican Army that it is abandoning its terrorist war to unite the island.

The IRA said in a statement Monday night that all of its fighters, estimated at about 5,000, have been ordered to end their harassment of the Northern Ireland border and throw away their arms.

Both sides of the border welcomed the announcement. But Northern Ireland's government said it will keep its guard up.

The 1,000-word statement, handed to newspaper offices here by strangers, said IRA members have called a halt to five years of bombing and shooting attacks because of public opposition.

The statement added, however, that "the movement remains intact and is in a position to continue its campaign in the occupied areas (Northern Ireland) indefinitely."

The IRA blamed its lack of public support on apathy and government muzzling of the press. "The minds of the general public have been deliberately distracted from the supreme issue—the unity and freedom of Ireland," it said.

The IRA statement said that during the five-year campaign more than 600 operations were carried out. Casualties included six killed and 28 wounded, it said.

Two IRA men were killed in action and seven died accidentally during the same period. Forty-three IRA men are serving jail terms in Belfast, Northern Ireland; 42 in Dublin, and three in England, it said.

HERE AND THERE

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

There is something seductive about the new Courthouse on Cathedral Hill.

The old fortress, down near the waterfront, was grim and austere—like Justice herself. The benches were hard and the bare brown walls seemed to say, "Don't come here unless you must!"

The new courtrooms, with their soft fluorescent lighting, padded seats and richly-colored carpets, have an almost theatrical appeal.

The judge sits under a stately canopy, and from it issues a V-shaped light—not on the judge but on the wall behind him (a sinister effect). And the witness, covered up to his neck in a deep wooden box, looks as if he were having a steam bath—or something worse.

These luxurious courtrooms have no windows on the outside world, but simulated daylight comes down from the ceiling, and the air-conditioning plant, whispers a kind of lullaby as the misdeeds of mankind are deliberated by judge and counsel.

The setting seems wrong—but I guess we'll get used to it in time.

In these wide, free, open spaces of British Columbia, it's amazing how many things we are restricted from doing!

The proprietor of a Victoria beer parlor tried introducing fine pewter tankards and fancy China mugs as an artistic change from the plain near-half-pint glasses.

The customers loved them—but, of course, the B.C. Liquor Control Board couldn't stretch its spaghetti-like imagination that far.

"You must serve beer only in plain glasses," said the LCB.

Mrs. E. Colley, 126 Dallas, was much interested in our story of 95-year-old Hamilton Smith, Victoria's oldest native son.

In her attic she discovered a souvenir of his father, Moses Smith—a calendar of the old firm of Moses Smith and Company, which supplied biscuits and hardtack to Her Majesty's Royal Navy at Esquimalt in the 1890s.

Wild Easter lilies are already sprouting in the garden of Jack Kennedy at 182 Obed—but Mr. Kennedy has a secret. He grows them in a particularly secluded corner of his garden where the winter winds do not penetrate.

"I've done this for years," he says.

Theft Suspect Arrested Again On Eve of Trial

One of three men due to appear in city police court today for the start of a preliminary hearing in connection with the burglary of the Don Mee Co., 538 Fisgard, was arrested again during the night on a similar charge.

Leonard G. Bell, 24, of Glen Lake, was free on $2,000 bail to appear in court today for the hearing. Charged with him in the theft of about $12,000 from the Chinatown restaurant on Jan. 15 are Marian Miller, 34, and Francis Chan, both of Vancouver.

Bell was arrested Monday night following report of the theft of more than $500 worth of valuables and cash from the premises of G. E. Simon Ltd., jewelers, of 1306 Government Street.

FEW BLOCKS AWAY

He was charged with breaking into and entering and theft at the jewellery store—just a few blocks from the Don Mee Co.—in city police court today.

His lawyer Jack Gatehouse asked Magistrate William Ostler for a one-day remand to consider his election for trial.

Shortly afterwards Bell appeared in the dock again with Miller and Chan for the start of the preliminary hearing.

BROTHER TESTIFIES

First witnesses were William Bell, younger brother of Leonard Bell, and Bertrand Large. Both men live at 3805 Glen Lake Road.

Mr. Large said that the elder Bell was at their cabin in the early part of January "before all this happened," and the other two accused came to see him once but he didn't know who they were.

Small-Scale Fair Booth Considered

City council today reconfirmed that it will contribute up to $10,970 for a publicity booth at the Seattle fair but no more.

The money can be used either for a Vancouver Island booth—estimated to cost $56,000—or a co-operative venture with the Seattle Chamber of Commerce which would cost much less.

Mayor R. B. Wilson and publicity bureau president Ald. A. I. Curtis will attend an emergency meeting in Nanaimo Wednesday night to see if a gap of $15,000 for the booth can be filled.

If not, the city's contribution will go towards rent and providing a two-girl staff at the Seattle Chamber of Commerce's visitors' information booth at the terminal of the monorail system linking the downtown area to the fair grounds.

Cost of the alternative, tentatively arranged by publicity commissioner William Hawkins on a flying visit to Seattle this morning, would be less than $10,000 to the city.

TAX PLAN REJECTED

A suggestion that the city's business tax be raised by 1/2 per cent to cover the $15,000 shortage for operating a booth within the fairgrounds was rejected.

Ald. Curtis said the business community needed more education on the ways in which it benefits from the tourist trade before such an increase could be accepted.

Mayor R. B. Wilson said council would not be willing to increase its offered $10,970 contribution because it would impose too heavy a burden on city ratepayers.

Council left decision on which plan would be followed to the publicity bureau, reiterating only that it would be willing to vote the previously approved sum to either scheme.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Sheila M. Wallace, 2709 Roseberry, $35 for careless driving.

Thomas A. Mitchell, 1653 Burton, $35 for careless driving.

Other firms said they were not contemplating changing over entirely to tons at this time.

HAPPY ENDING to a frightening story is told in the two pictures above. Top shows Jim Scoones, Campbell River logger, inspecting nine-foot boat which carried his two small sons through treacherous waters when they went adrift for 20 hours overnight Sunday in what could have been a tragedy. They were spotted from the air and rescued Monday morning none the worse for their experience—Douglas, eight, at left in bottom photo; and brother Jamie, nine. The boys left home Sunday to play at a nearby park, changed their minds en route, and "borrowed" boat from waterfront float. They drifted 20 miles before being spotted. (Agnes Flett photos.)

Home Delivery Soon For Milk in Cartons

First home delivery of milk in waxed cardboard cartons here is expected to be made about the middle of March by Island Farms Dairies Co-Op Association, general manager Thomas Lindsay announced today.

While all Victoria dairy firms sell cartonized products through retail stores, home deliveries have been continued in glass bottles. Cartons for home delivery are in use in several Canadian cities and in many U.S. centres.

Mr. Lindsay said that Island Farms, which delivers through Greater Victoria, has been using cartons for about five years and now does a 50-50 business in bottles and cartons.

GROWING TREND

"We decided we would have to go one way or the other," he said, "and it seemed to us that the growing trend was to cartons."

Mr. Lindsay said that while carton packaging was a little more expensive, he believed there would be considerable savings to offset the added expense.

At the present time, Mr. Lindsay said, milkmen are wheeling six or seven tons of glass through the streets, they have to collect empties and then the bottles must be handled and put through washing equipment at the plant. He believed the cartons would cut from one to two hours off delivery time.

Other dairy firms aren't so sure about the economies of cartons, for home delivery and the manager of one plant figured they would add one cent a quart to cost of operations.

"The margin of profit in this business just isn't high enough to absorb that extra cost," he said.

Other firms said they were not contemplating changing over entirely to tons at this time.

'We Can Shake Outside Areas'

Go-It-Alone Policy Suggested on Buses

The outside municipalities which turned down an amalgamation study may find the gesture cost them $500,000 a year in transit deficits, a city alderman warned today.

City Seeks Licence Fee From Clubs

A legislative committee was told today the City of Victoria wants to charge a licence fee of up to $100 to private clubs which serve liquor to their members.

This is one of five requests before the special committee on private bills for amendments to Victoria's Act of Incorporation.

The other requests are: To licence carnivals up to $100 a day.

To licence vending machines for a maximum of $50 every six months.

To licence commercial vehicles picking up or delivering goods in the city for $20 every six months.

For permission to set up by-laws and regulations for Thetis Lake Park.

City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady told the committee that about 15 private clubs would be affected by the licensing provisions.

The committee did not make any decision today on whether or not to recommend that the legislature pass the Victoria amendments.

"I will hear a delegation of vending machine operators at another meeting first."

Four Injured In Head-On Sooke Crash

A head-on two-car collision outside the Sooke RCMP office on Sooke Road Monday evening sent four people to hospital, three of them from one family.

The four were Valton Regan, Townsend Road, Sooke; his wife Gwen; their daughter Ann, 12, and the daughter of some friends whose mother has not yet been notified.

All were in a car driven by Mr. Regan which had been travelling east on Sooke Road and was preparing to turn left. Sooke RCMP said the second car was driven by Gerhard Hansen, of Sooke. He was unhurt.

The injured were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital by Sooke ambulance.

CONCUSSION

Ann was admitted with slight concussion and abrasions and is reported in good condition today. The others treated for cuts and bruises and released.

James B. Seaton, 1784 Lansdowne, was treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital for face cuts and released following a two-car collision on the Trans Canada Highway at Helmecken at 5:15 p.m. on Monday.

Colwood RCMP said the second car involved was driven by David Blake, 4530 West Saanich Road. He escaped injury.

Earlier in the afternoon four-year-old Gary Rhodes, 2003 Cameron, was treated at the same hospital for a cut lip after being in collision with a car heading west on Pembroke.

City police said the child apparently ran out in front of a parked car. Driver of the moving car was a juvenile.

Decision on issuing the writ will come from the cabinet.

Former City Magistrate Dies at 78

Former police court magistrate, Henry C. Hall, died in his sleep today at the age of 78.

Mr. Hall retired in 1959 after 22 years as a magistrate. He was a former member of the Legislative Assembly, being elected a Liberal member for Victoria in 1917.

Born in Detroit, he came to B.C. from Ontario in 1900 and was admitted to the bar in 1906. He started practice in Nelson before moving to Victoria in 1912.

MIA FOUR YEARS

Mr. Hall was a Liberal member for four years, during which time he was instrumental in helping put through a number of important pieces of legislation.

Among these were the development of the industrial reserve, the Johnson Street bridge, social legislation that included mothers' pensions, the minimum wage act and equal guardianship of children and the establishment of Victoria College.

He was appointed magistrate in August of 1936, replacing Magistrate George Jay, who retired on his 75th birthday.

He is survived by two daughters in Vancouver and a son, Fernau. A second son, Frank, was killed during the last war while serving with the Seaforth Highlanders in Sicily.

Funeral arrangements will be made by McCall Brothers.

Eight Cougars Shot By Island Marksman

By JOHN BASSETT

Cougars are more plentiful than ever on Vancouver Island, says marksman Jim Dewar of Extension, near Nanaimo.

Dewar, who spends much of his time tracking them in the bush, should know—it's his job to kill them.

An employee of the predatory branch, B.C. game department, he works with a trusty 30-30 and four dogs. Ostensibly he deals with complaints received by the branch regarding the cats, but in fact, it is his task to keep the local cougar population to a reasonable number.

If a recent trip to Cameron Lake is any indication, he's despatching his duties with a large measure of success.

In a three-day period Dewar shot eight cougars.

"I've never seen a really thin cougar," says the professional hunter. "They always seem to know where the deer are."

"But going only by the increasing number of cougars reported, and the success we've (the dogs and he) had this year there is a growing population in both deer and cats."

He gives credit to his four tracking dogs.

"They do the tracking and I do the shooting," he says. "If you have a general idea where to look initially the dogs will scare 'em out."

A new member of his dog clan—Joe, a Blue Tick from Tucson, Arizona, valued at $400—has already mastered the game, playing a large part in the recent Cameron Lake excursion.

"Maybe when the summer rolls around I'll get another dog and train him as well," Dewar said. "A man can always use five dogs tracking cougars."

PROFESSORS URGE

Re-Negotiate
Columbia Pact

VANCOUVER (CP)—A group of University of British Columbia professors today urged re-negotiation of the international Columbia River treaty.

The group said the re-negotiated treaty should either postpone construction of the proposed multi-million dollar Mica Creek dam on the Columbia or drastically reduce costs of Canada's share, of downstream benefit power.

The treaty has been ratified by the United States but not Canada, which is in dispute with British Columbia over the financing of the Columbia project.

The $276,000,000 Mica project is one of the key dams in the Columbia development which would provide storage on the Columbia system in Canada for production of power in the United States.

The treaty provides that Canada should get 50 per cent of the power generated in the U.S. as a result of Canadian storage.

The group, which said it voluntarily investigated power in B.C. "in an attempt to bring some light on the subject," said Mica dam would provide downstream benefit power at a cost of 9.5 mills per kilowatt hour.

"Buying energy at this high price is indefensible," the report of the group said. The report was released at a press conference.

The report said the cost of the Columbia project—$458,000,000 is the estimate of the federal and provincial governments—would be greatly reduced if money could be borrowed from the United States.

The money would be borrowed at the same terms as the U.S. government provides for projects in the U.S.

At the same time the group called for a delay in construction of the Peace River power project, now started by the Crown-owned B.C. Electric Company, and for study of a multi-million power project on the Fraser River.

The report, which followed a three-month study of hydroelectric sources in B.C., also said that a plan for construction of the hydro dam at Mica on the Fraser River is more attractive than either the Peace or the Columbia River projects.

That a proposal to generate power from coal deposits at Hat Creek, 150 miles northeast of Vancouver, is highly attractive.

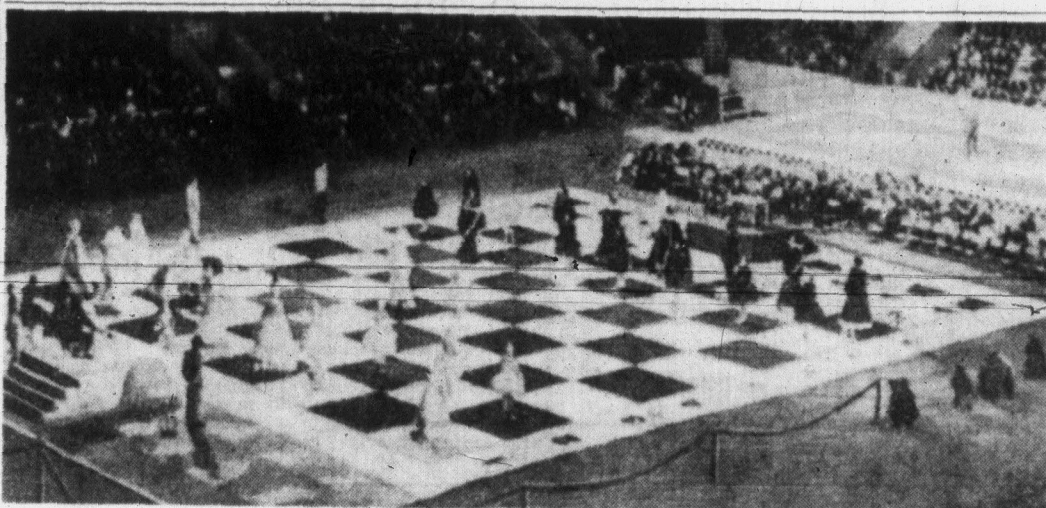

Cost of four mills per kilowatt hour should be considered the highest price to be paid for electrical energy in the Greater Vancouver area.

C. B. Bourne, law professor at the University of B.C., said the survey was launched by a group of five other professors at the university and a retired engineer.

Other members of the study group were Dr. J. D. Chapman, professor of geography; civil engineers J. F. Muir and Dr. Eugene Ruess; economist A. D. Scott; Dr. H. B. Warren, geologist; and E. F. Wilks, retired mechanical engineer.

"We are not trying to sell any one project," said Dr. Warren. "We are just trying to

NEW LOOK IN CHESS

Moscow's sports palace Monday night was jammed with 15,000 spectators who breathlessly watched every move made by two of Russia's masters of the game. The reason was that cold ivory pieces were replaced by sprightly, warm-blooded ballerinas dressed as pawns, knights, bishops, castles, kings and queens who pirouetted to their squares as the masters directed. Half the dancers were dressed in white and half in black, but all wore scarlet tights. Chess masters were world champion Mikhail Botvinnik and former champion Valis Smyslov—but who cared? (See story page 8.)

WHY?

Premier Bennett Monday began to lose patience with federal Finance Minister Donald Fleming for not meeting him to discuss the Columbia River project.

Mr. Bennett wrote to Ottawa in January offering either a meeting here, or to travel east himself before March 15.

"I haven't even had so much as a routine acknowledgment," said the premier.

"If this situation was reversed," he added, "if it was me who hadn't replied to a letter from Mr. Fleming—your papers would be printing big stories."

He said the B.C. press should carry "big black headlines" on their front pages about it.

Winning Easily

NEW DELHI (Reuters) —

Prime Minister Nehru's Congress party swept toward another five years of power today with a long lead in India's third general election.

On the national level, results gave the party 52 out of the 70 seats declared for the 494-seat Lok Sabha (lower house).

Congress candidates were also leading in many election districts, including the key one of North Bombay where Defence Minister V. K. Krishna Menon held a big 58,000 vote margin over his chief opponent, J. B. Kripalani.

On the state level, Nehru's party, led with more than 1,000 seats out of the 1,500 declared for the 2,930 assembly seats at stake in 13 legislatures.

While the right-wing Swabatra party—regarded by many Indians as a potential threat to the Congress party—made gains in three states, its national chairman, N. G. Ranga, lost his house seat to a Communist in Andhra Pradesh.

In both Andhra Pradesh and West Bengal, the Communists appeared to be holding their own despite a party split over Communist Chinese incursions on the Indian border.

Five Others Sent to Jail

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Prison terms ranging up to 14 years were imposed today on six more convicted Sons of Freedom Doukhobor terrorists by Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton, bringing to 20 the number imprisoned since January for burning and dynamiting in the Kootenays.

Mr. Justice Wootton said society must be protected as he imposed a 10-year sentence on Tim Jmaeff, 46-year-old sect youth choir leader and father of five, for a dynamite attack on the old RCMP building here in January, 1961.

Jmaeff, who Monday told the special assize court that the Sons of Freedom fraternal council had been supporting terrorism in the Kootenays, was given a further four years concurrent for illegal possession of dynamite. Both sentences are concurrent with one for 12 years given Jmaeff at an earlier trial for placing a bomb on a railway track.

Paul Zaroubin, 23, who police said was Jmaeff's chauffeur on the night of the dynamiting, was given six years for his part in the blast and four years for illegal possession of explosives. The sentences will run concurrent with five years imposed previously for illegal possession of explosives in connection with a bomb found under a church at the village of Wynndel in April, 1961.

Brothers Mike and Larry Laren were given six years for blasting a power pole in the Slokan Valley in December, 1961, and a further four years concurrent for illegal possession of explosives.

DIEFENBAKER

A-Arms Only
If War Comes

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker today declined a direct reply to Paul Hellyer, Liberal defence critic, on whether there is a secret Canada-United States agreement for provision of American nuclear warheads to this country on outbreak of nuclear war.

Opposition Leader Pearson asked for comment on Washington reports quoting U.S. military sources as saying that nuclear warheads supplied to Canada after outbreak of war would be of no use.

The prime minister said he didn't intend to make observations in such an important matter on the statements of some anonymous individuals.

By VICTOR MACKIE

Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker said flatly in the Commons Monday that if Canada is attacked by nuclear weapons, Canadian forces should not be denied the right to use nuclear weapons.

He said the government "hopes" to have nuclear weapons available for use by Canadian troops participating in a nuclear war breaks out.

But just how the Canadian government would realize that "hope" was not clear following the Prime Minister's replies to a series of questions asked by Opposition Leader L. B. Pearson in the House.

Mr. Diefenbaker's statements appear to indicate that the Canadian government has entered into some form of agreement with the United States providing for a very fast delivery of nuclear warheads for use on weapons in this country in the event of the outbreak of hostilities, or clear evidence that hostilities will break out within a matter of hours.

Top defence officials within the government firmly refused to comment Tuesday on the statements made by the prime minister. They said that the only person who could interpret what Mr. Diefenbaker meant by his statements was the prime minister himself.

Certainly it appeared from what the prime minister said that Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles in Canada and jet interceptors in this country will not be equipped with nuclear warheads while there is still a chance for peace.

But in the event of a sure sign that nuclear war is on its way to North America, including an attack on Canada, then Canadian forces presumably will be able to obtain fast

Pearson to Ask Specific Facts

However while leaving the impression that some form of fast delivery system might be arranged with the U.S. defence forces the prime minister did not actually come out and say there was such an arrangement in the works. It is expected Liberal Leader Pearson will press again to ascertain if some such secret agreement has been made.

GOV'T STAND
VACILLATING
—CHEVRIER

VANCOUVER (CP)—Former Liberal Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier says the Diefenbaker government's whole attitude toward nuclear arms is one of "vacillation compounded by indecision."

He made the charge Monday night in an address to a Vancouver-Quadra Liberal nominating meeting which chose businessman Grant Deachman, 48, to contest the next federal election. The seat has been held for 27 years for the Progressive Conservative Party by External Affairs Minister Howard Green.

Mr. Chevrier is in Victoria today. He addressed the Kiwanis Club at noon and was scheduled to be the key speaker at an Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal nomination convention at the Tillam School at 8 this evening when David Groos was expected to be chosen candidate for the coming federal election.

QUOTA OF 300

Argue Heads for Grinding Crash On Liberals' Bandwagon — Berger

Hazen Argue left the CCF-New Democratic Party with "indecent haste" to jump aboard the Liberal Party bandwagon, B.C. provincial leader of the CCF-NDP Tom Berger said here Monday night.

"It was a most pitiable performance," Mr. Berger told a federal nominating convention in Woodsworth Hall, 731 Courtney Street.

"I am very much afraid Mr. Argue will find the Liberal bandwagon is going in the wrong direction, and he will crack up with it."

"PATHETIC"

"He has failed miserably to justify his charges that the NDP is under the control of a clique of labor leaders. His whole performance is pathetic."

Mr. Berger said Mr. Argue had spoken of Liberal leader Lester Pearson as a "new Pearson."

"What has this new Pearson said about the great issues of peace and war?" he asked.

"Mr. Pearson has never taken a stand on Red China, either the United Nations assembly or since."

"Mr. Argue says he has changed. I don't think he has. I think it is Mr. Argue who has changed."

SEEK ALTERNATIVE

Mr. Berger said the reception given to NDP leader Tommy Douglas in British Columbia was a clear indication that the people are seeking an alternative to the kind of "unsatisfactory government" they have had for so many years.

"They are tired of a government that is based, not on the needs of the people, but on the demands of big business."

Mr. Berger said big business had failed to cope with the major problem of unem-

Sentences to date have ranged up to a maximum of 28 years—the total of two sentences given to convicted terrorist Fred Davidoff, who during his trial and sentencing lashed out at the court and called the judge a "murderer."
